• • • •

Folks generally decline to become excited merely because the new tariff bill sets up a drastic censorship to exclude certain books from the country—those they want to read they'll buy from a bootlegger.

• • • •

"Delightful task! to rear the tender Thought,
To teach the young Idea how to snoop."

Ramsay MacDonald, as he contemplates a call to form a new government, is in a position to appreciate just how Jim Watson feels about that Republican majority in the Senate.

"And what is so rare as a day in June"—
Or else our mind is hazy.

The Law Enforcement Commission calls it half a day and lays off for a week. It is such evidence of restless energy as this that encourages us to hope that it'll soon catch up with the crime wave.

• • • •

A million dollar blaze that qualifies as a conflagration razes three city blocks in Sheboygan, which reminds us that in the old high ball days at Shoomaker's we have known many a blaze to be extinguished by Sheboygan water.

• • • •

With only a little more than a month to go to the Glorious Fourth we submit this is no time for a fireworks factory to blow up.

• • • •

The Administration's insistence upon no recess until a date has been agreed on for a vote on the tariff bill conference report is as clever a scheme for putting the Democrats in a hole as one they could have thought up themselves, and they are no slouches in this respect.

• • • •

Indeed, fixing a date in the Senate for a vote on the tariff is probably sound enough if assurances have been received in advance that Tom Heflin has no more speeches in his system—it would be awkward if, just as the roll was to be called, somebody should almost hit a policeman with another bottle.

• • • •

• • • •

Boss Cannon issues his orders to his Virginia henchmen and if we were wearing Carter Glass' shoes we'd begin shivering in 'em.

"More work for the undertaker,

• • • •

And one wonders whether Senator Swanson suffers from political shell shock when he hears the Cannon boom.

• • • •

Last Mr. Hoover's appeal to the conscience of the world in his Memorial Day speech prove unavailing, Secretary Stimson puts his tweezers on its pocket nerve and gives it a tweak. Ouch!

• • • •

That Army court-martial at Governors Island appears to be a tempest in a coffee pot.

• • • •

It is said to have been the warmest thirty-first of May that Harry Sinclair ever spent.

• • • •

Cleanliness may be next to godliness, but this doesn't apply to the gang who have been sending $4,500,000 of Uncle Samuel's postage stamps to the laundry every year for a big clean-up.

• • • •

• • • •

With the Senate and House both agreeing that it's high time the corpse of the debenture was buried what's the use of all this dispute over the style of coffin?

• • • •

With the Soviet government agreeing to buy $30,000,000 worth of Fordakies Russia should soon be almost as radical as the Middle West.

ENGLISH RULER HAS OPERATION, PAPER REPORTS

WALES VISITS FATHER AS PHYSICIANS LEAVE

OLD TROUBLE IS BACK, DAILY EXPRESS SAYS

Queen Almost Continually at His Bedside, in Spite of Royal Optimism.

London, (Saturday) June 1 (U.P.).—The Daily Express today asserts that an operation was performed on King George at Windsor Castle Thursday on account of a recurrence of pleurisy in his lungs, which caused so much concern during his illness last winter.

This statement has not been commented on officially so far.

The newspaper said that a diagnosis of the king's condition late in the afternoon suggested that the old trouble which endangered his life last winter had returned. An X-ray examination revealed that the abscess now bothering his majesty is directly under the old wound.

Tubes were inserted and most of the fluid was drawn off. The patient's fall of temperature Friday was considered particularly hopeful, but additional nurses have been called and the queen is almost continually in the sick chamber, the newspaper said.

Improvement Reported.

Windsor, England, May 31 (A.P.).—British attention, divided between anxiety over the condition of King George and interest in the results of the general election, could be devoted to the latter to an increasing extent tonight by reason of improvement by his majesty.

His physicians, Lord Dawson of Penn and Sir Stanley Hewett, returned to London after lunch at the castle and will not revisit their royal patient until tomorrow morning. The king had had a fair night and a restful day. He was visited by the Prince of Wales this afternoon.

The nation was somewhat reassured by an official bulletin today which said: "An abcess has formed under the site of an old scar on the right side of his chest and is now draining. His general condition remains good. Though the king will need to remain in bed, his majesty will be able to transact public business."

Thanksgiving Service Postponed.

Although an order for a thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbey in gratitude for the recovery of the king from his serious illness of last winter was issued only yesterday, it was thought possible that in view of the new development it might be postponed.

It was understood that officials of Windsor Castle and persons close to the royal family do not take too serious a view of the illness of the king although preparations were made to give him the greatest care because of his recent long illness. It was four days ago that an increase in temperature sent his majesty back to bed.

The fact that Sir Hugh Rigby, the surgeon who operated on the king last December, has not been called in was regarded as an encouraging sign. It was stated that the abscess was purely local and that it is draining naturally.

Although a protracted and serious turn in the illness of King George would cause much distress of feeling

Billion Navy Budget If Arms Cut Fails Is Hint of Stimson

Statement Issued Following Cabinet Meeting Strengthens Belief That President Wants World to Heed Limitation Speech.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Coincident with the Labor victory in England, Secretary of State Stimson yesterday issued a statement designed to reinforce and elaborate President Hoover's Memorial Day speech on the subject of reduction of naval armaments. The fact that the statement came immediately after the Cabinet meeting implies that the President authorized and directed that it be made.

It therefore must be read as part of the administration's program to press for definite action in the matter of naval limitations and to seek by various forms of pressure and persuasion to convince Europe that Mr. Hoover means business and proposes to make naval reductions a matter of major policy. An appeal to the pocketbooks of the various peoples and a warning that America will have to spend more than $1,000,000,000 in rounding out her naval building program unless a reduction agreement is reached are featured in the Stimson statement, which is as follows:

"In connection with the President's speech at Arlington yesterday in which he advocated naval disarmament and stressed the imperative character of this problem, I wish to call attention to another aspect of the same question. The President yesterday spoke about it with reference to its direct relation to the promotion of peace and to relieving the world from the threat of war. In addition to these considerations we do not always realize the immense material burden which is imposed upon the nations of the world today by the cost of the modern ships of war. That cost is mounting with every fresh discovery in warfare.

"A modern capital ship costs between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 — several times the cost of the battleship of a

MARTIN WILL BUILD 25 NAVY SEAPLANES

Aircraft to Be Delivered by June 20, 1930; Bid Also Offered on 18 Others.

EACH TO CARRY FIVE MEN

Glenn L. Martin, Baltimore and Cleveland airplane manufacturer, last night announced the award from the Navy Department of a contract calling for 25 large seaplanes with an option on five additional planes. The 25 planes, according to Mr. Martin, will cost $1,438,261.56. If the five additional planes are constructed the total price will be $1,677,262.50.

Experimental work will begin immediately at Mr. Martin's temporary plant in Canton, Baltimore. Construction will begin August 15 with the first unit of his new Middle River, Md., plant open. His contract with the Navy calls for delivery of the planes not later than June 20, 1930. They are to be patrol biplanes of the DN-12 type, with twin motors. They will be equipped with bombing apparatus and each will carry 1,000 pounds of bombs in addition to a crew of five men.

Mr. Martin recently completed a series of 302 seaplanes at his Cleveland factory. Approximately 1,200 men are to be employed by January 1 next to work on the order, and by this time next year Mr. Martin predicted he would be employing 1,800 men. He also announced he was preparing a bid on eighteen monoplanes of the PY type for the Navy. The bids on this contract will be opened June 21.

Ruiz Is Appointed Mexican Delegate

(Associated Press.)

Early negotiations for settlement of the differences between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic Church were presaged last night by the announcement by Archbishop Ruiz, president of the Mexican Bishops Conference, that he had been appointed by the Holy See to be apostolic delegate in Mexico.

President Portes Gil is understood to be ready to receive overtures from the church looking toward reestablishment of the Catholic ecclesiastical organization in Mexico. He took a step in that direction recently with an address to the archbishop here of an invitation for negotiations.

How soon the Mexican Archbishop will confer with President Gil has not been decided. He has applied for a passport, but has made no plans for departure. It is considered likely, however, that he will go to Mexico City within two weeks.

USURPATION IS LAID TO RESERVE BOARD

PREDICTS CONGRESS CURB

Paris, May 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Federal Reserve Board has usurped a power which does not belong to it, William C. Durant, president of the Durant Motor Co., declared in a speech before the American Club luncheon today. American business men, however, he said, will force it to remain within the proper limits of its power.

Word which was spread that Durant was going to make a sensational speech at this luncheon elicited the biggest attendance the American Club has had since Col. Lindbergh's arrival here.

"The direct result," he said, "of the unconstitutional assumption of power by the Federal Reserve Board in regulating investments and in fixing the rate of interest in the United States has had the effect of bringing about the highest rates ever known in prosperous times, although the Federal reserves are twice the legal minimum.

"I have yet to hear any notable business man who will agree that the Federal Reserve Board, as it is functioning at present, is either a useful or legal organization, and I fully expect the coming Congress to accept the pressure from public opinion to extend the passage of the new bill for curbing its usurpation of power

"More than 15,0[illegible],000 Americans now hold industrial stocks, as compared with only 3,0[illegible],000 five years ago, the increased holdings being based on the confidence of the people in the country's industrial leaders. Confidence, with a certain degree of conservative optimism, is the basis of American prosperity.

"Another factor is the high value we place on human labor. A country which tries to keep labor down can never be prosperous. Low wages provide a fertile field for agitators, breeding strikes and industrial discontent. Until some other country finds a way to pay and treat labor as we do, our industrial supremacy will continue—unless the Federal Reserve Board or contraband liquor succeed in destroying us."

Eight Foreign Beauties Flee Night Fire on Ship

Galveston, Tex., May 31 (A.P.).—Eight foreign beauties en route to Galveston for the international beauty pageant were routed from their cabins in night attire last night when fire broke out in a hold of the Mallory liner Algonquin.

BATTLE LOOMS OVER BRITAIN'S LABOR VICTORY

PARTY FAILS TO WIN COVETED MAJORITY

MACDONALD JUBILANT OVER PARTY SUCCESS

King George Is Expected to Invite Him to Form New Government.

London, May 31 (A.P.).—The Labor party tonight, with the counting of the votes of the general election all but completed, was just short of an absolute majority in the House of Commons. The most impressive showing of its young life had given it a plurality over the old established Conservative party of 38 seats although the popular vote for the Conservatives was about 200,000 greater.

The 8,292,204 Labor votes counted had won 288 seats, while 8,506,224 cast for Conservative candidates had elected 250, since there are 615 members of the House, a clear majority would require 308 seats.

The government of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, which had the overwhelming majority of 185 in the dissolved Parliament, stood definitely defeated. The Liberal party, the second veteran of British politics, was led by Lloyd George to increased representation which seemed to give them a valuable balance of power, although they ran a poor third. The victory of Labor was the more impressive because it had been a steady growth since it won the first two seats in 1900 by a vote of about 62,000.

Baldwin May Try to Fight.

The country faces several alternatives. Mr. Baldwin might try to fight it out with the present government, less the members who fell by the wayside in the voting. A coalition between either Conservatives and Liberals or Labor and Liberals might be formed, or, and it looms large, a deadlock may force a new general election next autumn.

The electorate, with about 5,000,000 women voters added, has caused a surprise by dismissing the Baldwin government which had held power for nearly five years and creating the possibility of the second Labor government the country has known.

If, as seems likely, the king invites Ramsay MacDonald to form a government, he will be able to accept the task with much greater confidence than he did in 1924 when, with only 190 members, he formed a minority government against a Conservative opposition of 258 and depended for existence upon the whims of 158 Liberals.

Will Consider Situation.

It was expected that Mr. Baldwin would call a cabinet council next week to consider the situation. Rumors were current in political circles tonight that he favors holding a meeting of Parliament on June 25 and daring the Liberals to vote him out of office.

Ramsay MacDonald, when he reached London tonight, spoke what was in most English minds, "It looks as though the new parliament will have a very interesting problem in democratic government to face."

The question of party expense was expected to keep all concerned from seeking in the near future a new election. Matters seemed on the face of the situation to show greater chance of a Labor-Liberal alliance than a Conservative-Liberal.

BISHOP CANNON WAGES WAR UPON DEMOCRATS WHO VOTED FOR SMITH

POLLARD, MAPP, PAGE FALL UNDER HIS BAN

HOLDS SMITH-RASKOB CONTROL MUST CEASE

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., Virginia's stormy petrel, yesterday moved to perpetuate the anti-Smith fight in his State at least until he has wrested control of the Democratic organization from its present leaders.

Announcing that he would not participate in the Democratic primary in August for the nomination of State officers, he called upon the anti-Smith Democrats to rally at Roanoke June 18 for the purpose of selecting their own candidate for governor.

He must be "an able, well-qualified anti-Smith Democrat who did vote against Alfred E. Smith, and did refuse to accept or follow the present national and State Democratic leadership, and who will continue to do so," the bishop declared.

In taking this action the politico-clergyman turned thumbs down on the three candidates already in the field for the Democratic nomination and who are just as dry as he could possibly be.

They are John G. Pollard, former State attorney general and now professor of law at William and Mary College; Walter Mapp, author of the State's drastic prohibition law, and Rosewell Page, of Hanover County, formery second State auditor. Pollard is not only a dry, but what in Virginia they call a "Hard Shell" Baptist. A few years ago he was elected attorney general by the drys.

All Remained Regular.

But the three of them remained regular in the November campaign and supported the presidential nominee of the party.

"The election of a man of his description," Bishop Cannon's manifesto continued, "would be to the best interests, not only of the State of Virginia, but of the Democratic party in State and Nation, for such result would warn the Democratic party in the Nation at large that Southern Democrats will not agree to surrender their moral convictions for a purely political party triumph, and that a continuation of the Smith-Raskob leadership will mean the permanent loss of the South to the Democratic party."

The Roanoke convention has been called for some time. There have been exchanges of conversations between Republican and anti-Smith leaders looking to an amalgamation of the two groups, but it is not generally believed that the idea got very far.

Cannon May Be Candidate.

It is also doubted that the Republican leaders in the State were any more sympathetic than the anti-Smith leaders, the former being quite willing to go along on their own and take advantage of the Democratic split.

The Roanoke meeting was called to determine whether the anti-Smith people should put a ticket in the field. Bishop Cannon's rallying call is believed to insure an affirmative decision.

There has been little public discussion of who the anti-Smith people may name, but the impression prevails that the bishop would not mind bearing the standard himself.

Several years ago he held the State in the palm of his hands. His dynasty extending over a long period was never

WOMAN DIES IN DUEL WITH KITCHEN MAID

MURDER CHARGE IS FILED

Cleveland, Ohio, May 31 (A.P.).—A society woman and a household maid fought with butcher knives today and the society woman, Mrs. Alonzo M. Snyder, wife of a prominent Cleveland attorney, was slain. The maid, Anna Szenan, confessed the killing to police.

A first degree murder charge was filed against the maid late today and County Prosecutor Ray T. Miller said he would place the case for the county grand jury Monday.

Anna was held at police headquarters in East Cleveland tonight where she told of the fatal struggle and the events that led to it. She insisted Mrs. Snyder was the first to attack.

The two women were alone in the kitchen with three big knives on a table nearby. An argument developed over Anna's salary.

Anna told the police that Mrs. Snyder came at her with a knife. "I grappled with her and she got her hand cut in the struggle, but I took the knife away from her."

Mrs. Snyder picked up another knife and came on again, Anna said, but the society woman slipped and fell. "While she was down I stabbed her twice," she confessed.

First warning of the tragedy came when some one called the police to the Snyder home, saying, "Come at once; there has been trouble."

Sergt. Yarhouse was admitted to the dwelling by Anna, who at once told him "I killed her," the sergeant said.

Mrs. Snyder formerly was Mrs. Richard Marsh, and was the daughter of

POLICEMAN'S DYING WISH SAVES SLAYER

Man Who Shot McAuliffe Is Allowed to Plead Guilty in Second Degree.

ELECTRIC CHAIR AVOIDED

Samuel (Shorty) Jenkins, 43 years old, pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree murder of Policeman John F. McAuliffe, 24 years old, before Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy late yesterday in the District Supreme Court.

Jenkins was indicted on a first-degree murder charge, conviction of which carries the mandatory death sentence. The penalty for second-degree murder runs from 20 years to life imprisonment.

The dying wish of McAuliffe was realized when Jenkins was allowed to plead to the lesser murder charge. A few hours before the policeman died at Georgetown University Hospital he said to his mother:

"He shot me and then shot himself. He didn't know what he was doing. They must not prosecute him. Promise me you won't let them do it."

In a drunken fit, Jenkins fired at McAuliffe through the first-floor window of his home at 1213 Thirty-fourth street northwest on the night of January 19. The policeman was on his way to investigate a disturbance in the Jenkins home when the hail of bullets came through the window. After fatally wounding the policeman, Jenkins turned the gun on himself. As they lay side by side in the hospital a few hours later, the policeman turned to Jenkins and forgave him for his act. McAuliffe died two days later.

Cries in Vain to Man Who Promised to Meet Her to Halt Auto.

When the man she expected to marry drove by the church where she was awaiting him by appointment early last night, a 27-year-old woman, who gave her name as Alice Johnson, fired two bullets from a .25-caliber automatic pistol into her body. Hundreds of persons, howeward bound from work in the summer dusk, witnessed the woman's act and heard her scream to the man as he drove away.

"Stop!" they told police the woman screamed as the car rolled by, and when it continued on she shrieked again. This time, they said, her words were: "Stop! Or I'll kill myself."

Then, to complete the drama, the woman pulled out the little gun and pressed the trigger. Three shots were

Doctor Shoots Lieutenant In Duel Over Pretty Girl

Walter R. Miller, of Virginia, Is in Serious Condition Following Fight Witnessed by Young Woman; Physician, a Married Man, Arrested; Army Board to Investigate.

St. Paul, Minn., May 31 (A.P.).—Gun play engendered by the triangle of a young Army officer, a middle-aged physician and a pretty girl had put the officer in a hospital tonight while the physician faced charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

The Army officer, Lieut. Walter R. Miller, and the physician, Dr. William H. Hirst, shot out their differences last night in front of the home of Miss Nan Elizabeth Ferguson, 26.

Lieut. Miller, whose home is in Virginia, was shot through both legs, one bullet causing a compound fracture of his right leg. Physicians said his condition was serious, but that he would recover. Meanwhile a board of Army officers was named to investigate his part in the affair.

Miss Ferguson was released by police late today after being held as a witness. Both she and Miller charged that Dr. Hirst fired first, and their statement, police said, was supported by an eyewitness whose name police declined to reveal. Hirst denied he shot first.

The shooting started when Miller found the physician seated in a car with Miss Ferguson in front of the latter's home and invited him to get out "and settle this matter." When Miss Ferguson left the car and walked a short distance with Miller, they said, Dr. Hirst opened fire. Police said both weapons were emptied in the exchange. Miller's gun was at first believed to have disappeared, but police found it in the street later.

seriously questioned. He dictated patronage. He dictated the nominees.

Then he went away to the foreign mission fields of the Methodist Church. When he came back he was placed in charge of its prohibition organization.

But his old power in Virginia had passed into other hands. The Swanson-Byrd-Glass organization had become entrenched. It thought it was rid forever of Cannon's influence.

Campaigned for Hoover.

But the nomination of Smith by the Democrats gave him his opportunity. He campaigned for Hoover throughout the South. Things had gone so far by the time Smith had been nominated that the regular leaders could not truckle to him if they had wanted to. They set out frenziedly to beat him by carrying their State for Smith. They lost.

Now the bishop gives indisputable evidence that he does not intend to let go. Despite the fact that his transfer to the foreign missions field gave a world touch to the scope of his purpose in life and his subsequent appointment as the Southern Methodist's prohibition spokesman gave him a national voice, it is apparently his first love, the concentrated power of being boss of Virginia, that he really wants.

But this is not believed to be entirely the case. If he is successful in the State elections this fall no one seriously doubts but that he will go after Senator Carter Glass' scalp next year. Strangely enough, too, Glass is as dry as a man could possibly be, both politically and personally. It is often his boast that he has never touched a drop of liquor in his life. But he gave the bishop his chance by supporting Smith.

The Byrd-Swanson-Glass organization realizes that its back is against the wall. It has been seeking to bring the anti-Smith Democrats back into the fold. Any thought of punishing them for their November defection was quickly voted down.

Instead, they got their heads together and found a way by which the rule requiring a vote for the Democratic candidate in the preceding election as prerequisite to participation in the primary was interpreted as not applying to them.

FOUR DEAD, 12 HURT IN FIREWORKS BLAST

BUILDING IS DEMOLISHED

Elkton, Md., May 31 (A.P.).—Four men were killed and a dozen other persons slightly hurt this afternoon by an explosion in one of the buildings of the Victory Sparkler Co., fireworks manufacturers, near here.

The dead are: Harry Brown, 58, truck driver; Vernice Jones, 38; John Gilbert, 21, and Allen Dickerson, 24, laborers. A dozen girls employed at the plant were slightly injured by flying glass, shattered by the force of the blast.

Fire which followed the explosion was quickly extinguished after destroying the small building in which the blast occurred, and damaging the adjoining one. A fire earlier in the day damaged another of the small buildings, a number of which comprise the factory.

The blast occurred while Brown was unloading chemical materials used in the manufacture of fireworks. Officials did not know whether the blast was in the truck or the building itself.

Fog Again Delays Atlantic Flights

Planes Are Unlikely to Take Off Within Next 24 Hours.

Old Orchard, Me., May 31 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Dreary fog rolling in from the ocean and reports of another widespread storm area in midatlantic, again kept the two would-be transatlantic monoplanes, Green Flash and Yellow Bird, anchored on the beach here, with no prospects of a chance to take off for at least 24 hours.

As a result, four of the airmen turned pleasure bent this evening. Rene Le Fevre and Jean Assolant, pilot and navigator of the Yellow Bird, the huge French Bernard monoplane in which they hope to fly to Paris, and Lewis A. Yancey and Roger Q. Williams, of the Bellanca plane, Green Flash, were dinner guests at the local country club this morning.

The fifth airman, Armeno Lotti, jr., sponsor and copilot of the Yellow Bird, was in New York, whence he has again flown to receive first hand Atlantic weather reports from Dr. James N. Kimball, Government meteorologist. Lotti hopped over to New York in the big twenty-passenger Savioa-Marchetti seaplane and plans a hurried trip back here should ocean flying conditions show any signs of improvement.

William S. Hart to Return.

Los Angeles, May 31 (A.P.).—Announcement was made here yesterday that William S. Hart, "two-gun man" of the movies, would return to the screen in a talking Western picture, having signed a contract with the Hal Roach studios. Hart's last picture was made four years ago.

MAN BEATEN, ROBBED ON MARYLAND ROAD

Sykesville Farmer Loses $25 and Is Left Lying Unconscious on Highway.

MENTION WOMAN IN CASE

Carl Cross, 23-year-old Sykesville, Md., farmer, was knocked unconscious, suffered contusions of the brain and was robbed of $25 as the result of a daylight assault and robbery yesterday on the Norbeck road near Rockville, Md. Cross was attacked by two unidentified men as he lay under his parked automobile making repairs.

Cross, who was found lying along the road by Joseph Starkey, Montgomery County surveyor, was taken to Rockville police headquarters, where he was treated by Dr. B. S. John.

The injured man told Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley that he was driving along the Norbeck road about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the motor in his coupe developed a "knock." He pulled off to one side of the road and got under his machine to see what was wrong.

While at work he said he heard another machine stop and saw two men approaching. Believing they meant to offer him help, Cross said he stuck his head from under the car and that one of the men struck him. The blow was a glancing one and served only to anger Cross, he said.

Crawling from beneath his auto, he engaged one of the men in a struggle and both fell into a pool of muddy water at the roadside. The second assailant then struck Cross with what the victim believes was either a blackjack or an auto wrench. Cross told police he remembered hearing a woman shout "Oh, Frank," from the second a to and then he lost consciousness.

That one of the men wore a light suit and that the other's clothes were spattered with mud from his fall into the puddle was all Cross could tell police in describing his assailants. Laurel and Washington police were notified to be on the lookout for a green touring car.

Germany Sentences Radical Editor to Year

Leipzig, Germany, May 31 (A.P.).—Karl Schrader, editor of Rote Fahne (the Red Flag), radical Berlin newspaper, was today sentenced to a year in prison and fined 100 marks (about $24.00) as a traitor. He was convicted of attacking the established form of the German government and of supporting a movement to overthrow the constitution by force.

Among the subversive articles to which attention was called at the trial was one denouncing the construction of a new armored cruiser for the German navy. This bore the caption, "The German Saber Rattles." Another from Schrader's pen called attention to the eleventh anniversary of the Russian revolution and was entitled, "I Praise the Dictatorship of the Proletariat."

The defense offered a plea of mitigating circumstances which was not recognized by the court.

Smith College Girls Don 1-Piece Suits

Northampton, Mass., May 31 (U.P.).—Calvin Coolidge's neighbors gazed over their waving fans into heat-drenched Main street today and beheld a sight this unsophisticated town never before had witnessed—four attractive young women parading in one-piece bathing suits. Evidently they were Smith College students.

The more conservative witnesses were amazed, so much so that they turned to Patrolman John J. Meehan with questioning looks which plainly said, "do something."

But Patrolman Meehan was stumped. Mentally he conned the town ordinances and failed to recall any which mentioned young women in one-piece bathing suits. Finally he telephoned Police Chief Bartholomew Breshnahan.

The official edict was this: "If it's a part of college education to appear in public in bathing suits, I have no objection."

COURT MARTIAL IN OFFICERS' ROW

Henry Miller Service.

OFFICER ROW BASIS OF COURT-MARTIAL

Col. Berkeley Enochs Will Be Tried Monday; Conduct of Mess Criticized.

TILT WAS WITH SUPERIOR

The charges on which Col. Berkeley Enochs, former chief of the Second Corps Area of the United States Army, will face a court-martial when it convenes Monday, grew out of an argument with Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely over the conduct of the officers' mess at a recent meeting of staff officers at Governors Island, it was learned yesterday.

As chief of staff of the corps area, Col. Enochs acted in a supervisory capacity over the officers' mess. Criticism of the food and service grew out of his management, it was said. When Gen. Ely made some suggestions to remedy the condition, Col. Enochs is said to have taken it as a personal affront.

There ensued an argument in the presence of the other staff officers. Believing that he had been shown insubordination and disrespect, Gen. Ely preferred charges against his colleague. Because of the rank of the officers involved, the War Department recommended a court-martial.

The War Department yesterday ordered a general court-martial to convene at Governors Island Monday for the "trial of such persons as may be properly brought before it." Those who are detailed for the court are: Brig. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, Brig. Gen. Stuart Heintzelman, Brig. Gen. Otho B. Rosenbaum. Also Cols. William R. Sample, Christopher C. Collins, Frank K. Ferguason, Julian R. Lindsey, Howard L. Laubach, George M. Hoffman, Russell C. Langdon, Chalmers G. Hall; Capt. J. F. Reynolds, trial judge advocate; Capt. George B. Campbell, assistant trial judge advocate; Col. Charles W. Exton, defense counsel, and Lieut. Col. Consuelo A. Seoane, assistant defense counsel.

Doctor Suspected Of Second Murder

Police Seek to Link Man Held in Torso Killing to Another Case.

Los Angeles, May 31 (A.P.).—Evidence connecting Dr. Frank P. Westlake, suspected as the slayer of Mrs. Laura B. Sutton, whose torso was identified here a few days ago, with still another death, has reached Capt. William Bright, of the sheriff's office.

Mrs. Sutton's torso was unearthed several weeks ago in this vicinity at a spot along the Los Angeles River. The head was found only a few days ago near the same place. Both parts of the body, investigators said, showed signs of having been severed by one skilled in surgery.

Capt. Bright did say that the new case was not that of Joseph Van Zandt, for whose drowning in a well Dr. Westlake was under suspicion 32 years ago in Perry, Ill. A coroner's jury there failed to hold him. He said here today that he had nothing to do with the death of Van Zandt, who had been his friend.

Discovery of Beer Closes Frat House

Nine Ann Arbor Students Must Explain to College Authorities.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 31 (A.P.).—The University of Michigan Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi, national collegiate fraternity, was ordered today to close its chapter house at noon tomorrow, to remain so until next fall, as a result of the discovery by police of a barrel of beer in the basement of the building.

Nine college seniors, members of the organization, were ordered to appear before the university disciplinary committee to defend themselves against the charge of allowing drinking.

Carl Stuhrberg, county prosecutor, announced today that warrants charging each active member with violation of the prohibition law would be recommended if the member who placed the beer in the basement did not appear at the hearing of the fraternity president next Wednesday.

LINDBERGH AND WIFE BELIEVED ON ISLAND

DOCKS PRIVATELY HELD

Brunswick, Ga., May 31 (U.P.).—The rumor that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride were honeymooning on an island off the coast of Georgia was strengthened tonight by the announcement that newspaper men would not be permitted to land at Sapelo Island, owned by Howard E. Coffin, millionaire automobile magnate.

The only speedboat at Sea Island belongs to the Sea Island Development Co., a Coffin holding, and tonight was guarded by two men. C. F. Redden, vice president of the company, gave orders that its use was not to be permitted.

"If Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are at Sapelo Island, they would have requested the privilege of remaining in seclusion," Redden said. "Mr. Coffin would expect me to respect their wishes, and I will do nothing to violate his confidence."

The Lindberghs were reported to have been set ashore at St. Catherine Island by the Coffin yacht, Zapalis, this afternoon. Redden's attitude, however, seemed to indicate that they may be on Sapelo Island, instead.

Rumor has it that they arrived in an amphibian plane from New York yesterday afternoon, accompanied by two officials of the Transcontinental Air Transport Corporation a concern with which Lindbergh is connected.

The only approach to Sapelo Island is by water, and the docks are privately controlled by Mr. Coffin.

New York, May 31 (U.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's name will appear in New York's social register soon, it was learned today.

On its first insertion, probably in the summer edition, to be published in June, the flier's name is likely to follow that of his bride, the former Anne Morrow, who already is a social registerite. In subsequent editions the names probably will be coupled.

The Navy bag traveled 952 miles. It was piloted by Lieut. T. G. W. Settle and carried Ensign W. Bushnell as aid.

900 Bottles Seized On American Liner

Liquors Are Discovered in Lifeboats of President Harding.

New York, May 31 (A.P.).—A special squad of the Customs Enforcement Bureau today seized approximately 900 bottles of liquers concealed in lifeboats of the liner President Harding, of the United States Lines, Inc.

The liner arrived at Hoboken, N. J., today, and an exhaustive search was made before the liquor, wrapped in brown paper in packages of about nine bottles each, was found.

The liquor wa staken to the Barge Office and the captain of the ship has been asked to go to the customs office tomorrow for an inquiry into the presence of the liquor on his vessel.

Since its recent transfer from Government ownershop the liner has sold liquor on its westbound voyages. Under this arrangement the liner has been required to throw overboard all liquor in excess of medicinal stores when it approaches New York.

The classified columns of The Washington Post might be called a market place. Here the buyer and seller can meet upon common ground.

BARRICADED MANIAC SLAYS 3, WOUNDS 3

WAS GASSED DURING WAR

Chicago, May 31 (A.P.).—An ex-soldier with a deadly aim ran amuck with a repeating shotgun today, killing three men and wounding three others before he ran out the back door of his flat and escaped the tear bombs of detective squads. Police believed he had been crazed by drink.

The dead are Sergt. John Conley, leader of the detective squad which went to arrest Preuss; Policeman Herbert Hegberg and John Chorazek, a bystander.

The wounded are Gus Karos, a bystander, who is expected to die; Frank Vodicka, also a bystander, and Policeman Joseph Murphy.

The officers went to the Preuss flat on a call from a neighbor that "a drunken man is beating up his wife." Thinking it was "just another drunk to be quieted," Sergt Conley and Policeman Hegberg went to the rear door and knocked.

A shot crashed through a window on the porch behind Conley and he fell. Hegberg stepped back to return the fire and a second charge caught him full in the chest and head. Both died almost instantly.

Attracted by the shooting, Charozex had just stepped into the front yard, when Preuss, apparently having hurried through the house, fired again from a front window. Charozek fell dead in sight of his 11-year-old son, Edward. Murphy had just jumped from the squad car to aid his fellow officers and Vodicka had gone to Charozek's assistance. Preuss' next shot wounded both.

The madman fled down a street, eluding other detective squads who arrived with tear bombs. A deputy bailiff, James Stickel, fired at the slayer and said tonight he thought he had wounded him.

Preuss' wife, taken into custody for questioning, said that her husband had been drinking heavily for three weeks and was particularly abusive this morning. When she threatened to leave him, she said, he got his automatic shotgun out of a trunk.

"I pleaded with him not to use it, but he fired several shots at me as I ran out the back door," she told police. "I ran to a neighbor's flat and she telephoned officers."

Mrs. Preuss said her husband had served overseas during the war and had been wounded and gassed.

Boy, 12, Found Hanged; Suicide Seen by Police

Chicago, May 31 (A.P.).—The body of John McGavock Dickinson, 12, grandson of former Secretary of War Jacob McGavock Dickinson, was found hanging in his parents' Winnetka home last night. A belt was wound tightly around the lad's neck.

The coroner's office reported the case was a suicide, but Jacob M. Dickinson, jr., prominent Chicago attorney and father of the youth, denied this, saying he believed his son had accidentally strangled himself while attempting to emulate the hero in a book the boy had been reading which dealt with a lynching.

Youthful Slayer of 3 Dies in Electric Chair

Lincoln, Nebr., May 31 (A.P.).—Henry Sherman, youthful slayer of three persons, died in the electric chair at the Nebraska Penitentiary early today. No eleventh-hour efforts to save the life of the 22-year-old killer were made nor were any of his friends present.

Sherman's crime included the killing of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pochon, his employers, on a ranch near Burwell, and the slaying of Mrs. Eugenia Pochon, mother of the former, the violation of 14-year-old Nellie Pochon, and the beating of a 6-month-old baby. He was crazed with liquor, he asserted, and angered by rebukes for his attentions to Nellie.

$10 WAS DEATH LURE, IN PLOT, POLICE SAY

Aged Woman Held in Murder Accused Also of Using Blandishments.

DAUGHTER WILL AID HER

Macon, Ga., May 31 (A.P.).—Solicitor General Garrett, of Bibb County, today expressed the belief that James Parks, a 25-year-old printer, was lured to his death in an "insurance plot" by ten dollars and motherly endearments.

"I have evidence that Mrs. J. C. Powers, Parks' 71-year-old landlady, furnished both the money and the honeyed words," the solicitor general said.

Mrs. Powers and Earl Manchester, 21, itinerant Canadian painter, are in jail charged with the murder of the printer last Monday night. Manchester has signed a confession that he killed the youth for $1,000 of a $14,000 insurance policy on Parks' life, which named Mrs. Powers as beneficiary.

The woman admitted, while in hysterics, that she hired Manchester to "do the job," but repudiated the confession.

The new evidence came in a letter from Chief of Police J. L. Gibson, of Hapeville, Ga., near Atlanta, where Parks was reared in an orphanage. The Hapeville officer said Parks returned there about the middle of May and was persuaded by friends to accept a job in Atlanta rather than return to Mrs. Powers' boarding house.

The Hapeville chief wrote "A registered letter came to Parks from Mrs. Powers enclosing $10 and telling Parks to come back to Macon and that she had a nice room for him all ready furnished and also promising other things if he would just come back."

Gibson promised affidavits and they were requested by the solicitor, who said his case was "complete," but that he was still delving into Mrs. Powers' history here. 'The disappearance of a man on whom Mrs. Powers had insurance and the violent death of the agent who sold the policy were investigated, together with more recent interviews between Mrs. Powers and young men who answered her advertisements, offering "home-like surroundings."

Today Mrs. Lee Tharpe, daughter of Mrs. Powers, came to her mother and offered her every aid. Police said the woman was mystified at the charges against her mother and declared that "she must be insane" or else none of the charges were true.

Parks was buried today at Hapeville, near the orphanage in which he was reared.

Two Stamp Fraud Suspects Give Up

Pair Surrender in U.S. Case, Alleging Washing and Resale of Postage.

New York, May 31 (A.P.).—Two men sought as members of a ring which the Government says is responsible for more than one-fifth of the $4,500,000 lost annually through the washing and sale of canceled stamps, surrendered to Federal authorities today. Warrants have been ordered drawn for five others.

The arrest of the men was asked in a telegram to United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle from Federal authorities in Charleston, S. C., where the seven men were indicted recently. L. A. Beebe and Frank Marquis, who surrendered, were released in $1,000 bail each for further hearing on June 26. The five being sought here are H. Chitiaro, Sam Boysneer, Charles J. Gregory, C. C. Keltono and Edgar Nelton.

Frank E. Shea, Postoffice inspector, said the Government has obtained a complete confession from William H. Hale, alleged chief of the stamp ring. Besides the clean-up here, Shea said 23 arrests have been made in Chicago besides those in Charleston. In Chicago three boys, the oldest 13, were apprehended for washing canceled stamps and exchanging them for candy from a mail order house. The boys were released.

STIMSON TELLS BILLION SHIP PROGRAM, BACKING PRESIDENT

few years ago. Even a modern 10,000-ton cruiser costs more than double the original cost of the Library of Congress. I have in my possession a memorandum from the director of the budget showing the cost of the program recommended by the Navy Department in case the policy of naval reduction which the President advocates is not adopted. That memorandum shows that the authorized and contemplated naval program for the construction of new ships alone amounts to $1,170,800,000. In addition to this enormous sum for new construction there will also be required very large increases in the already large naval budget to cover the operating cost of these new ships.

"When it is borne in mind that the foregoing figures involve the construction program of only one nation and that if it proceeds other nations will be impelled to follow suit, the burden of unproductive expenditure which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next fifteen years can be to a certain extent realized.

Diplomats were greatly interested in the statement and also in every circumstance connected with its being made public at the State Department at this time. The methods to be pursued by the administration in attempting to force the arms limitation issue will naturally arouse the keenest interest in foreign capitals, especially now that Mr. Hoover has clearly indicated an intention to actively and energetically assume leadership along this line.

Usually, it is a distinct disadvantage for any government to become sponsor for a particular cause in dealing with foreign nations because the success of any program then becomes far more important to the sponsoring nation than to the others. In international bargaining this enables other nations to sit back and insist upon acceptance of their own terms as a price for allowing the sponsoring nation to have the gratification of seeing its efforts lead to actual results. It was because of this that Mr. Coolidge declined to press the naval armament issue after the collapse of the Geneva tripartite conference, but simply said that if Great Britain wanted to make further moves in the direction of naval limitation, America would be responsive to such suggestions.

Coolidge Action Explained.

President Hoover, therefore, gives Great Britain and other interested powers all the advantages in the negotiations, which precede the next effort to limit naval armaments, although this does not mean that America will suffer as a consequence when terms of agreement are considered. It only means that there will be a great temptation to accept the best bargain foreign nations will give and past experience shows that every such bargain offered has been against the safety and interest of the United States. Had America been absolutely committed to the cause of naval reductions at the Geneva conference there would have been an almost irresistible temptation to accept the British terms, for there might have been such acceptance without advertising the disadvantages to the United States. Mr. Coolidge on that occasion chose failure with safety to America rather than the glamour and plaudits which would have come from success of the negotiations.

From the standpoint of American opinion, there is a suggestion in the Stimson statement that the President would willingly put an end to the present cruiser building program if the foreign powers will pave the way for such action. Asked pointedly about this, Secretary Stimson declined to comment. He was reminded that Mr. Coolidge had said that the cruiser-building program bore no relation to naval reduction programs because the American Navy would in any event be below the minimum which foreign powers might agree to. Mr. Stimson declined to comment on this phase of the matter.

Reason for Secretary's Words.

There is support for the administration's program of cutting short this cruiser building—if such program is in contemplation—in the cruiser bill passed by the Congress. Section 4 of the bill states:

"In the event of an international agreement which the President is requested to encourage for the further limitation of naval armaments, the President is hereby authorized and empowered to suspend in whole or in part any of the naval construction authorized under this act."

This may be contrued as a mandate which the administration is bound to follow but in that event the administration would also be equally bound to follow the mandate in the cruiser bill calling for a freedom of the seas conference prior to 1931. And there has so far been no intimation that this feature of the naval program has been given any consideration.

Announcement of naval policies, with facts and figures of naval costs, by the Secretary of State would have caused considerable comment if it had not been clear that the Stimson statement really amounted to a relayed Hoover statement from the White House. As a very general rule no cabinet officer ever interprets or adds to a speech made by the President for the reason that the President is presumed to say just as much and just as little as the occasion calls for. But Mr. Stimson's statement is not to be viewed as an amendment to the Hoover Memorial Day speech or an attempt by the Secretary of State to supply what he believes should have been added to the President's remarks. It is clearly a case where the President desired to add to his speech of Thursday and chose the Secretary of State as the medium for making public this addition.

ENGLISH VOTE SEEN NAVAL CUT IMPETUS

Recognition of Soviet by British Also Hinted With Bearing on U. S.

STIMSON KEEPS SILENCE

(Associated Press.)

American Government officials, while declining to comment publicly on the results of the British general elections, held the general view yesterday that if the Labor party takes over the government with Ramsay MacDonald as prime minister, an impetus will be given to the naval reduction program sponsored by the United States.

Secretary Stimson refused to comment, and said he had not yet received "any authentic information" about the English balloting.

The question of recognition of the Russian Soviet government by England, advocated by the Labor party, was considered by American officials to have potentially an important effect upon the foreign relations policies of the United States. In the event of the granting of this recognition, it was believed here that a good deal of pressure might be brought to bear upon the United States to grant similar relations to the Soviet government.

Recognition by Great Britain of the Soviet government would place the United States in the position of being practically the only large power which has not accorded these relations to Russia, and it was thought another attempt might be made in the Senate by Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, to bring about American recognition. Senator Borah has been an admirer of Ramsay MacDonald and was an interested observer of Thursday's election results.

Peruvian Fliers At New Orleans

Good-Will Aviators May Make Nonstop Hop to Mexico City.

New Orleans, La., May 31 (A.P.).—Peru's good-will fliers, en route from Washington to Lima with stops in many cities along the way, arrived here today from Montgomery, Ala., in their Bellanca cabin monoplane. The time of their departure and next stop will not be decided until tomorrow.

The aviators, Capt. Carlos M. Pinillos and Lieut. Carlos Zegarra, told the Peruvian consul general, Alberto Perez-Saez, that their next objective depended on the possibility of a take-off here with a heavy load of fuel. If such a getaway can be made, they expect to make a nonstop flight to Mexico City, otherwise, they plan to stop at Houston, Tex., to refuel. The consul general added that it would probably be Sunday or Monday before they would renew the flight.

The plane behaved well on the short journey from Montgomery, Capt. Pinillos said, although motor trouble was experienced between that city and Washington, forcing a landing in the Alabama city. Tomorrow three fields will be measured here to ascertain whether a runaway of required length for a heavy load take-off is available.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY VICTORY MAY FORCE NEW ELECTION

"It would be silly for us of the Liberal party to pretend that we have realized our expectations. We have once more been tripped up by the triangle.

Will Not Haggle, Says Lloyd George.

"Holding the balance is a very responsible position, we fully realize it and you can depend upon it we shall make no unfair use of it. We shall certainly not use it in a haggling spirit. We shall carefully consider what best should be done in the interest of the country. The king's government must be carried on and in the present state of the country it is essential that it should be steady."

Beyond that the Liberal leader would not discus the Liberal plan. The Conservative ministers tonight generally declined to comment on the results.

Women candidates in this election won more seats than they had ever held before but, although women voters outnumbered the men, only 13 of the sex were elected, while 42 were defeated.

The Conservatives made only three gains from the other parties and lost 127 seats.

Labor gained 123 and lost 4 seats.

The Liberals took 32 seats from the other parties, principally from the Conservatives, and lost 17.

Other gains and losses were divided among the Independents and Communists.

Lady Astor Wins by 211 Votes.

It is notable that among the Independents are three Irish Nationalists, including Joseph Devlin, all opponents of the Conservative party in northern Ireland and possible supporters of a Labor government.

Two women born in America competed in the election.

Lady Astor, peeress, born in Virginia, held her seat in Plymouth by a margin of 211 votes.

"I am going to Parliament, not to Virginia as my enemies hoped," she declared today. "I promise you this will be the smallest majority I will ever get in with again."

Mrs. Z. K. Hoffman, from New York City, was at the bottom of the poll in northern Norfolk. She ran as a Liberal. Mrs. Hoffman claimed to be a descendant of Anne Boleyn, one of the wives of Henry VIII.

Ramsay McDonald was jubilant today over Labor's great success. In his own constituency in Durham, he confessed that he "honestly did not expect" to see the Labor party so powerful in the new House.

Magnificent, Says Ramsay McDonald.

"The results have been magnificent," he said. "The government has lost the confidence of the country and Labor has won it. Thanks are due to the women who voted for a policy of social reconstruction at home and peace abroad.

"It is not going to be all beer and skittles, especially for me. I am only beginning to bear the burden, but I will do it cheerfully," the labor leader concluded.

Labor headquarters in London declared the development of the Labor vote was not confined to the industrial constituencies, since commercial cities such as Liverpool and Birmingham were joining in the movement.

All three leaders of the big parties will enjoy little family parties in the next House, although that of Premier Baldwin will be subject to some discord.

Leaders' Children Victors.

Mr. Lloyd George was accompanied to victory by his daughter, Megan Lloyd George, and his son, Maj. Gwylim Lloyd George. Both won victories for the Liberals.

Ramsay MacDonald saw his son, Malcolm, come in for Labor, but Premier Baldwin had no such consolation in the hour of his defeat.

His son, Oliver Baldwin, a man of 30, won for Labor a traditionally conservative seat in his father's own County of Worcester. Premier Baldwin will sit for Bewdley in the next House and Oliver for Dudley.

Arthur Henderson, home secretary in the Labor government of 1923, heads another family representation in the House. He was returned with two of his sons for Labor.

Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia Mosely will sit side by side on the Labor benches. The daughter of the late Lord Curzon is a newcomer to Parliament and captured a seat from the Conservatives for the Labor cause.

Independent Laborite Reelected.

James Maxton, redoubtable leader of the Independent Labor party, a strong body within the labor ranks, was reelected in Glasgow by a majority of more than 10,000. His return is important in view of the influential position of the "I. L. P." on the left wing of the Labor party.

"By getting control of the government machinery of this country," he said just before the election, "labor will see that the foundations of a Socialist commonwealth are laid, so that there are no rich and no poor and an end is put to exploitation."

The financial geniuses of the Conservative and the Labor parties were both victorious. Winston Churchill, brilliant chancellor of the exchequer in the Baldwin government and an outstanding British political personality, and Philip Snowden, Labor chancellor in 1923, were reelected to the house, where their budgets were celebrated for brilliant grasp of financial problems.

Their sole representative in the last parliament, the Parsee, Shapurji Saklatvala, was defeated by a Labor candidate. H. Pollitt, one of the British Communist party chiefs, was snowed under by Ramsay MacDonald in Durham.

Presbyterians Approve Union of 2 Seminaries

Pittsburgh, May 31 (A.P.).—The General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in session here today gave approval to the project to unite Xenia Theological Seminary, St. Louis, with the Pittsburgh Theological Seminary.

The action, it was said, does not constitute a union of the schools, since they are under control of synods, but leaders of the denomination looked upon it as a step toward actual bringing together of the two institutions where the ministers of the church are educated.

STUDENTS WIN POINT IN DES MOINES CASE

SCHOOL REMAINS OPEN

Des Moines, Iowa, May 31 (A.P.).—Des Moines University trustees today lost the first step in a court battle to obtain control of the Baptist Fundamentalist Institution. Judge Frank S. Shankland overruled their motion to dismiss a temporary injunction under which the school has been operating since May 13.

He announced, however, that the writ would not be made permanent until after another hearing, date for which has not been set. Students obtained the injunction May 13 after Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board of trustees, ordered the school closed because of student riots.

Although they had won a temporary victory today, the undergraduates were still uncertain as to whether the trustees would recognize their credits for work done while the school has been open in violation of the board's mandate. Seniors especially were wondering whether they will receive diplomas of graduation next Tuesday.

Judge Shankland refused a request of Dr. Shields' attorneys that he modify his decree to show that it is not intended to interfere with the trustees' legal rights. They asserted the board could delay granting of diplomas and credits until it completes investigation of the student riots.

"If this board of trustees," the judge said, is competent to determine who shall be issued diplomas and who shall have credits, it ought to be competent to know what is meant by the terms of the temporary injunction granted.

"Let us wait until somebody tries to interfere with its terms; then we will see what is meant in the wording of the writ."

President H. C. Wayman, whom the trustees have dismissed together with the entire faculty, effective June 4, was the only witness at today's hearing. He said that if the court had not prevented him from carrying out Dr. Shields' order to close the school, students would have lost their credits.

Attorneys for the students declared that what the trustees really want to know is whether they can discharge Dr. Wayman and any other faculty members and undergraduates at once, without violating the injunction. The court's action today will keep Dr. Wayman in office until next Tuesday.

JILTED WOMAN SENDS SHOTS INTO OWN BODY

fired, police learned, but only two found lodgement in her body.

She fell where she had stood—in front of 1300 Vermont avenue northwest. Passing pedestrians who had been startled by the sound of the shots, turned to see the woman falling, her bright red dress stained a deeper crimson where the blood welled from the wounds. They hurried to her side, and with the aid of Harry Rector, of 727 Gallatin street northwest, a motorist who had stopped his car to see what the excitement was about, removed her to the back seat of his automobile. Rector then drove to George Washington University Hospital.

All the way to the hospital she begged to be allowed to die, Rector said last night in discussing his part in the drama.

Police for a time were unable to identify the woman. Later she told them she was Clara Johnson, but the police were not convinced, since she gave no definite address, saying merely that she lived on Tenth street northwest. Papers in her purse bearing other names and addresses also contributed to the police skepticism. Shortly after midnight she said she was Alice Johnson and resided at 2119 H street northwest.

Police, however, learned what they believed to be the real name of the man in the case, and he was being sought last night. His name was not revealed, except to the department detectives who were assigned to find him.

Dr. Daniel L. Borden, a Police Department surgeon, operated on the woman shortly after she arrived at the hospital. After the operation, hospital authorities expressed the opinion that the woman's condition is serious.

3 CITY BLOCKS RAZED BY $1,000,000 BLAZE

Sheboygan Warehouse Area Is Destroyed by Fire as Six Towns Rush Aid.

MANY HOUSES DAMAGED

Sheboygan, Wis., May 31 (United Press).—Buildings over an area of three city blocks in the industrial section lay in ruins tonight when a spectacular fire which swept the Sheboygan River front for three hours was brought under control.

The fire, one of the most disastrous in the city's history, started in a frame warehouse from an unknown cause. It spread quickly to the plant of the Garton Toy Co., and to other buildings. Only one small warehouse remained tonight. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

Hundreds of citizens, using water buckets and garden hose, fought successfully to save their homes when flaming embers, carried by wind, were spread over several blocks in the adjoining residential section of the city.

Six Towns Send Aid.

Fire departments of Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Kohler, Sheboygan Falls, Port Washington and Elkhart rushed companies here when the blaze went beyond control of the Sheboygan department.

The tug Peter Reiss also was brought into the fight when the flames were spreading to other buildings—the Sheboygan Chair Co., Sheboygan Dairy Products Co., Gustch Products Co., and two gas holders of the Wisconsin Public Service Corporation.

Several hundred employes in the business district, just two blocks away, and residents throughout the city lined the water front and watched the battle.

Wind Shift Aids Firemen.

A shift in the wind late in the day aided the firemen, but another shift off Lake Michigan drove the flames westward again toward the river front. This increased the work of the river tug and threatened for a time industrial plants on the opposite side of the Sheboygan River.

At the point where the fire broke out, the river flows from north to south, with the Garton property on the east and virtually in the center of the industrial area. The Sheboygan Chair Co., one of the city's largest plants, and the Dairy Products Co. are north of the Garton Co. with the Gutsch Brewery and gas plant to the south.

Furnishings from homes for two blocks on the east side of the Garton plant were removed by anxious owners when the fire brands landed on the roofs. Roof fires as far as six blocks from the toy plant were reported but no serious damage was caused.

Policemen Respond to Alarms.

The fire department was unable to respond to the hundreds of calls from home owners. Instead motorcycle policemen, with sirens shrieking, drove through the city taking notes of the fire outbreaks and directing volunteer workers in checking them.

The first report to the fire department said that an explosion had occurred in the warehouse where the fire started but this could not be confirmed. The warehouse formerly was occupied by the American Hide & Leather Co.

Thousands of persons attracted here from neighboring towns caused a serious traffic situation tonight but the police department, aided by special deputies pressed into service, kept the crowds from the danger area.

300 Thrown Out of Work.

Approximately 300 men, most of whom had been with the toy company for many years, were thrown out of employment by the fire.

An 87-year-old man, who was actively at the head of his company, watched the plant he had spent many years in building, go up in flames when the Garton toy building was destroyed.

Eusebius B. Garton, who came here from Toronto, Canada, had worked at his plant each day since 1864. He came here as a worker but saved his money and started a company to make wooden novelties. Of his vast holdings only one small warehouse was left tonight.

Several thousand men engaged in the combat which came as the climax of a number of minor engagements between the Italian troops and the rebel tribesmen. The communique said that 430 rebels were killed, several hundred wounded and many taken prisoner. The Italian casualties of 24 dead and 77 wounded included several officers.

Year of Grace Ends Today For Five Victims of Radium

New Jersey Women, Paid $10,000 Each for Illness Caused by Deadly Watch-Face Coating, Are Unimproved; All Show Effects of Contaminated Systems.

New York, May 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The year of grace, beyond which they were told they would not live, ends tomorrow for five New Jersey women, victims of radium poisoning who, a year ago, obtained cash settlements of $10,000 each from the United States Radium Corporation and were told they had a year or less to live.

Today a check showed that one is helpless in a hospital, another in a convalescent home, the third receiving treatment every other day and the remaining two in their homes.

Mrs. Quinta McDonald, of No. 386 Highland avenue, Orange, is in Orthopaedic Hospital unable to sit up and allowed to be visited only by members of her family.

Mrs. Albina Larice, her sister, of No 463 Austen place, West Orange, is lamer this year than she was last, but is still able to go for walks and rides in the automobile she bought with a part of the $10,000 awarded her.

Miss Katherine Schaub, of No. 124 South Seventh street, Newark, is in the Sacred Heart Villa at Caldwell. Three months ago the poison having so crippled her that she could not walk, she underwent an operation and was removed to the Caldwell sanitarium until she improves—if she ever does.

Mrs. Edna Hussman, of No. 50 Buchanan street, Hillside, is having considerable trouble with her teeth. Two were extracted Tuesday. Otherwise her condition, unimproved by a year of rest, to her seems unchanged.

Miss Grace Fryer, of No. 497 Tremont avenue, Orange, is the fifth. During the past winter she worked in the office of the Fidelity Union Trust Co., Newark, but two weeks ago obtained a leave of absence for the summer and underwent an operation on her jaw. Every other day she travels to New York to be treated.

Mexican Strikers Break Their Fast

Finally Quit Courthouse, Where They Had Kept Foodless Vigil.

Mexico City, May 31 (A.P.).—The 200 or more Mexican railway men who had remined in the supreme court building since last night without food left at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. President Emilio Portes Gil had sent an emmisary to them, with whom they left the building, presumably to confer with the president.

The strike was in protest against a judgment adverse to their interests. The court had upheld a declaration of an arbitration committee holding a railroad strike in 1926 illegal and depriving the railway men of their status as union employes.

The strike was orderly, although the men took possession of rooms where business was going on. No effort was made to oust them from the building. The strikers said they would not taste food until the court reconsidered its decision.

TWO ARE DROWNED IN HOUSTON FLOOD

Boy and Man Swept Away by Torrent That Swirls Through Streets.

DAMAGE PUT IN MILLIONS

Houston, Tex., May 31 (A.P.).—Two persons were known to have drowned tonight in the destructive flood which had been sweeping this city for 24 hours.

A messenger boy, who rode his bicycle too near the torrents on a downtown street toppled from the bike and was swept away. A horrified bystander lost his balance and fell into the water. He too, was whirled away. The identity of neither victim was learned.

Houston tonight felt the brunt of swirling flood waters that for days had gathered momentum in their sweep toward the sea after torrential rains along the upper reaches of streams in eastern Texas. Destruction was being spread throughout the gulf area of the eastern half of the State.

In this city, Buffalo Bayou and its tributaries already had caused damage amounting to millions of dollars and the crest was not expected to be reached until late tonight. The official weather forecast was for additional rains.

Fire Menace Is Serious.

While dirty, swirling water covered almost every bridge in the city, surrounded hundreds of homes and stood many feet deep in business buildings, Houston experienced a scarcity of drinking water. The central pumping plant was rendered useless by the raging bayou.

The six water substations still were functioning, although under a heavy strain, and business houses with private wells had volunteered to turn water into the city mains. A serious fire menace existed due to the low water pressure.

About a dozen persons had narrow escapes. Several houses were swept downstream.

The Neches River rose rapidly in Orange County and was flowing today over the old Spanish trail between Orange and Beaumont.

The Colorado River was 7 miles wide at Columbus. State prison farms in Fort Bend and Braboria Counties, especially those in the deep Brazos Bottoms, were menaced, and one transferred all its prisoners to safety some 10 miles away.

Refugees Take to Boats.

A terrific rainstorm headed down the Brazos late today. The towns of Lynchburg, Gaston and Clodine near here were lakes. The residents either were moving about in boats or had gone to higher ground.

L. H. Daingerfield, Houston weather observer, said early tonight that Buffalo Bayou had reached its crest here and that the waters would start receding before dawn. He predicted that the stream would be back within its regular channel by tomorrow night.

A break in a levee on the Murray Farm in Houston County late today caused inundation of 10,000 acres of farm land. Houston County lies about 100 miles north of this (Harris) county. No loss of life was reported.

Marshal Feng Retreats, Nationalists Declare

Nanking, China, May 31 (U.P.).—The threat of war between the National government armies and the strong forces of Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang has been avoided, according to an official announcement here tonight. The announcement said Feng, who had concentrated his large army in Honan province, was retiring.

Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Nationalist forces, split with Feng recently and both made extensive preparations for war, the outcome of which was not certain to observers. Feng charged Chiang with misuse of his office and wrongful expenditure of government funds.

Aliens Bootlegged As Seamen, Charge

Undesirables Are Smuggled From Europe's Ports, Andrew Furuseth Declares.

Geneva, May 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Between 60,000 and 75,000 undesirable aliens are bootlegged into the United States annually as "seamen," shipping out of Bremen, Hamburg, Amsterdam and Antwerp, according to Andrew Furuseth, president of the International Seaman's Union. Before coming to Geneva to attend the twelfth conference of the League of Nations labor bureau, Furuseth spent about five days in each of the above-mentioned seaports secretly investigating for Secretary of Labor Davis the conditions which permit wholesale smuggling of aliens into America.

He declares that the average price for "passage" as a seaman is between $200 and $400. Aliens who are refused passage because of moral turpitude, or who have been deported, easily secure false seamen's papers through boarding masters and go ashore in American ports as seamen.

So long as the present control exercised by British and Norwegian ship owners is enforced, Antwerp and Rotterdam will remain clean ports with a minimum of smuggling of undesirables, says Furuseth. There's no control in Amsterdam, while Bremen and Hamburg are both wide open, doing a flourishing business. While refraining from making direct charges, Furuseth's report to Secretary Davis will reveal that American vessels are among the most flagrant offenders.

400 Passengers in Panic In Elevated Train Fire

New York, May 31 (U.P.).—Panic seized 400 passengers in a Brooklyn elevated train today when a short circuit caused one of the cars to catch fire.

The train was between stations when the flames broke out. Clouds of smoke poured through the crowded cars. The motorman quickly applied full power and raced into the Union Street Station, where the doors were opened and the passengers let out. Several persons were trampled, but none was injured seriously.

FIRST LADY SPEAKS AT COLLEGE FINALS

MISS COMSTOCK'S GUEST

Cambridge, Mass., May 31 (A.P.).—Mrs. Herbert Hoover paid a brief visit to Cambridge today, spoke gracefully and briefly at Radcliffe College's semicentennial exercises, and then slipped away in the late afternoon by automobile for an unannounced destination. It was presumed that she would take a train tonight for Washington from some city other than Boston.

Mrs. Hoover accepted the invitation to come here extended by Miss Ada Louise Comstock, president of Radcliffe, the only woman member of President Hoover's National Law Enforcement Commission. She arrived in Boston early this morning.

Later, wearing the cap and gown bestowed upon her by Whittier College, California, she marched with President Comstock and delegates from more than 100 colleges in five countries to a theater, where 1,200 graduates and undergraduates had gathered. Miss Comstock introduced Mrs. Hoover.

The first lady of the land brought cheers when she said that she had come not only as the wife of the President of the United States, but also as a representative of three California institutions, Leland Stanford, Whittier, and Mills.

After the exercises, Mrs. Hoover was the guest at a buffet luncheon given by Miss Comstock on the porch of Bertram Hall. Those at the table included President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard University; and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Thorp, of this city. Mrs. Thorp is a daughter of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. She was hostess to Mrs. Hoover later in the afternoon at a garden party at the Longfellow house.

Chevy Chase Crash Injures Man, Nurse

Woman Badly Hurt When Auto Is Forced Off Highway.

Miss Margaret De Groot, a trained nurse, was seriously injured and Frank P. Whiting, of California, suffered shock and bruises when the automobile in which they were riding overturned after being forced off the Brookville road near midnight.

Miss De Groot was rescued from the wrecked automobile by the Kensington Rescue Squad, the Kensington Fire Company and the Chevy Chase Fire Company. She was removed to Emergency Hospital. Whiting was taken to his home. Miss De Groot suffered a fractured collar bone, fractures of several ribs and may have a skull fracture, doctors said.

Oscar Gaither, of the Montgomery County Police, who investigated the accident, reported that Miss De Groot had been employed in the Whiting home for several weeks, caring for Whiting's grandmother. Whiting is said to be visiting his grandmother, who lives at 6 East Irving street, Chevy Chase, Md.

Federation Protests Use of Landscapes for Advertising at Convention End.

ADULT EDUCATION URGED

Swampscott, Mass., May 31 (A.P.).—The thirteenth biennial council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs finished its business sessions here tonight after passing a resolution protesting against the use of landscapes for advertising and urging the restriction of all outdoor advertising to commercial districts.

An additional resolution recommending that club women give consideration to those firms which "do not desecrate the landscape with advertising" was also passed by the council.

Mrs. John C. Campbell, of Brasstown, N. C., spoke to the members of the federation on the need for adult elementary education.

She advocated a new type of school—a school that would stimulate thinking "and at the same time tie this new knowledge to the life and experience of every day."

Mrs. Campbell is working with the teachers of her own school, the John C. Campbell Folk School of Brasstown, in a small mountain community in the extreme southwestern part of North Carolina, to forward this new type of adult education.

During the morning session Mrs. Eugene B. Lawson, an American Indian princess of Tulsa, Okla., presided long enough to speak on Indian affairs, and urged the women to subscribe liberally to a fund to put more teachers at the Indian reservations. Mrs. Lawson is a daughter of the Delaware Tribe.

Five thousand dollars was subscribed from the floor at the call of Mrs. John F. Sippel, of Baltimore, Md., president of the federation, when she told the members that without a subscription the Federation News would be forced out of existence in July. The $5,000 raised today would keep the magazine going through the summer, she said.

The largest contributor was Mrs. Joshua Hodgins, of Merrionette, Wis., $500.

It was announced that the biennial session of the federation would be held at Denver, Colo., in 1930.

Lost Child Futilely Sought by Hundreds

Father Offers $1,000 for the Recovery of Girl Missing at Picnic.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis., May 31 (A.P.).—Search for 4-year-old Edith Dorschel, who disappeared while on a Memorial Day outing with her parents at Potawotamie State Park on Sawyer Bay, continued tonight with several hundred men trudging through the rugged brush territory.

The little girl, when last seen by her parents, was picking wild flowers and five minutes before she was missed she had presented her father, Joseph Dorschel, of Green Bay, with a wreath she made herself. A reward of $1,000 for information as to the child's whereabouts was posted by her father this afternoon.

Fear that she had been kidnaped was strengthened when a bloodhound was able to trail the child only as far as a little spur road leading to the main highway. Authorities said an automobile might easily have backed up the spur road and driven away without attracting suspicion.

Inquiry Is Ordered Into Fate of Heir

Legal Contest Develops Over Harvester King's Incompetent Son.

Santa Barbara, Calif., May 31 (A.P.).—Investigation was ordered by the superior court here today into the care and treatment of Stanley McCormick, incompetent son of the late Cyrus K. McCormick, and owner of an estate valued at between $70,000,000 and $80,000,000.

The ruling brought to a pivotal point a legal contest between Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife, and Harold McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brother and sister of the millionaire, who has been a ward of the court for more than a quarter of a century.

The brother and sister recently petitioned the court to investigate conditions at the Monecito estate, near here, where, they said, Stanley McCormick had been under care and virtually a prisoner. The time and conditions of the investigation will be fixed later by agreement of counsel. McCormick is 55 years old. It was intimated by counsel that sensational conditions will be disclosed by the investigation.

Convention Cheers as Chile and Peru Delegates Bury Tacna-Arica Row.

OTHER OFFICERS ELECTED

Dallas, Tex., May 31 (A.P.).—The twentieth Rotary International adjourned here today while the building still echoed the cheers for the Chilean and Peruvian delegates who shook hands on the stage and assured each other that the Tacna-Arica dispute was a thing of the past.

The striking gesture of international friendship came as delegates from all of the nations represented in the convention were delivering greetings to the assembly.

Francisco Mordones, of Santiago, Chile, assured the convention that the Tacna-Arica dispute, which for years had kept Chile and Peru on the verge of war, was settled. The next speaker on the program was Louis A. Chavez Velando, of Arequipa, Peru. Senor Velando echoed Mordones' word and asserted that his country was happy that it could regard Chile as a friend. Mordones rose and the two shook hands, later taking seats beside each other on the stage.

The election committee announced that M. Eugene Newsom, of Durham, N. C., had defeated Raymond Knoeppel, of New York, for the presidency and the vote was made unanimous on the motion of Mr. Knoeppel. Newsom is a merchant and former mayor of Durham.

Carl W. Ackley, of Vineland, N. J.; Roy Ronald, of Mitchell, S. D.; Clyde W. Hulsizer, of Des Moines, Iowa; Dan O'Hern, of Oklahoma City, and Dave Clark, of Charlotte, N. C., were elected directors of Rotary International representing the United States.

The board of directors announced that Dr. Otto Boehler, of Vienna; Dr. Edouard Willems, of Brussels, and Dr. Florestan Aguilar, of Madrid, had been named to fill the other vacancies on the board. These men represent all of the nations not assigned permanent seats on the directorate.

40 Dead in Quake; Cold Adds to Woe

Scores Injured by Tremor That Rocks Argentina, Destroying House.

Mendoza, Argentina, May 31 (U.P.). Intense cold tonight added to the suffering of homeless and injured in the earthquake zone centering around Villa Atuel. According to advices received here, more than 40 persons were dead in the quake area.

Latest reports said 20 persons were known dead at Villa Atuel and probably 65 had been injured. Other deaths were reported from various sections of the provinces which felt the earthquake yesterday. Relief workers at Villa Atuel had recovered seventeen bodies from the wreckage of the village. Only two houses remained standing.

Unconfirmed advices from Malvinas said 21 persons had been killed there. One dispatch reported that there had been much robbery of the dead at Villa Atuel.

Grain Dealer Ordered To Tell U S. of Sales

Chicago, Ill., May 31 (A.P.).—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today denied a writ of injunction sought by the Bartlett-Frazier Co., grain dealer, to restrain the Government from forcing their organization to report all grain futures transactions over 10,000 bushels to the Department of Agriculture.

The grain firm asked the injunction on the plea that such reports deprived it of business privacy. An appeal will be taken from the court's ruling, attorneys announced.

BELGIUM DEMANDS SEPARATE PAYMENT

Germans' Failure to Offer to Redeem Marks Delays Debt Agreement.

OTHER NATIONS SILENT

Paris, May 31 (A.P.).—The barometer of the reparations conference rose rapidly today with agreements on some of the German conditions but dropped a bit tonight when it was learned that the German government had not, as expected, named a plenipotentiary to negotiate with the Belgians on the redemption of German paper marks imposed on that country during the war.

In keeping with the accelerated pace of the conference during the last few days, the experts had worked until midnight last night and this morning disposed of several of the minor German conditions. Later they consented to lifting the lien on German railways, which under the Dawes plan had served as a guarantee for interest payments on the Dawes loan. They also came to an agreement with the Germans as to a modified form of eventual moratorium for two years on internal payments of Germany on part of the protected annuities.

The experts had supposed that they were rid of the question of German marks in Belgium by inducing the two interested governments to negotiate for a direct settlement. This evening however, in the absence of any word that the Germans had named a delegate for that purpose, the Belgians reiterated their determination not to sign any reparations agreement unless the mark question is settled at the same time either by the experts or by the governments.

Demand 25,000,000 Annually.

The Belgians demand 25,000,000 gold marks annually for 37 years to cover their claim and say they will wait no longer for settlement.

Aside from this obstacle there remains for the experts to solve only the questions of how much of the annuities shall be considered as payable unconditionally, how much may be protected by a safeguard clause and how the last 22 annuities shall be paid.

Little difficulty was expected in dividing the annuities into conditional and unconditional.

On the score of the last 22 annuities, the Germans stick stoutly to their contention that the payments should be met by the States that are successors to the Austrian kingdom as their portion of the Austrian debt.

Creditors Resist Question.

The creditors resist that thesis, declaring it a political question into which they can not go.

An alternative suggestion by the Germans was that in default of payments by those states the annuities might be paid from the profits of the proposed bank for international settlements.

The creditors raised less objection to this idea, though they regard the profits of a bank 58 years hence as too problematical to guarantee reparations payments and insist they can not release the Germans from undertaking to pay while willing to consider the possibility of applying any eventual bank profits.

New Altitude Record Believed Set by Jensen

Farmingdale, Long Island, May 31 (U.P.).—Martin Jensen, former holder of the solo endurance flying record, was believed to have set a new altitude record for commercial planes in a flight at Fairchild Airport late today.

Jensen, on landing, reported that the altimeter of his stock commercial seven-passenger cabin monoplane registered 26,500 feet before he started to descend. The barograph will be checked by Government officials and if this figure is found to be correct it will be a record for this class of planes. The plane used by Jensen was a Fairchild powered by a Wasp motor.

HOOVER JOINS G.O.P. TO OPPOSE RECESS

DEADLOCK BREAK IS SEEN

(Associated Press.)

Support for the stand of the Senate and House Republican leaders against a summer recess of the special session, unless farm relief legislation is first enacted and a definite date fixed for disposing of the tariff bill in the Senate this fall, was announced yesterday by President Hoover.

With a break in sight on the deadlock between the two branches on farm relief, whereby the export debenture provision of the Senate bill would be eliminated, Senator Watson, the majority leader, is ready to ask for definite dates for the tariff votes and to propose the all-summer recess.

The tentative dates fix June 12 for starting the recess and September 9 for its termination, with November 9 for a vote or the tariff bill and November 25 for a vote on the report of the conference committee which must compromise difference between the Senate and House versions of the measure.

Hoover Makes Statement.

President Hoover's statement, made in response to inquiries by the press, was as follows:

"The majority leaders, both Senator Watson and Congressman Tilson, are united in their recommendations to me that their should be no recess until farm legislation is complete, and that there should be no recess after that except for a few weeks to accommodate the Senate finance committee in its hearings on the tariff bill unless there is a completely fixed agreement in the Senate as to an early date upon which a vote will be taken on the bill, with a further agreed period for debate on the conference reports, which would assure a final vote in the Senate as early as possible.

"The interest of the country obviously necessitates the rapid determination of both these questions, and I am entirely in accord with their views."

Agreement Is in Doubt.

Whether the November date for a vote on the tariff measure in the Senate will be agreed upon is problematical. Senator Borah, of Idaho, is opposed to any recess. Senator Jones, of Washington, the assistant Republican leader, likewise thinks a recess unwise. Both would have Congress stay here and hasten the finance committee along with its work.

There is some talk of seeking a special order or rule in the Senate whereby a two-thirds vote would fix a limitation upon debate on the tariff and thus make sure a final vote on it.

Speaking for the Democrats on the tariff legislation, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, the ranking minority member on the finance committee, says he will agree to fixing a date for a vote on the tariff measure in the fall "if it allows a reasonable time for discussion."

Treasury Denies Morgan Had Rum

Statement on Case Issued; New Ruling on Port Freedom Expected.

(Associated Press.)

Reports circulated at the time a party of congressmen returned from Panama that liquor had been seen in the baggage of William M. Morgan, representative from Ohio, were denied yesterday in a statement issued by the Treasury.

As a result of the inquiry into the Morgan case, however, and the publicity given the custom of granting freedom of the port to members of Congress returning from abroad, the Treasury is expected to issue new orders soon regarding the expediting of baggage and the granting of freedom of the port.

The statement of Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary in charge of customs service, said that his investigation showed that none of the customs inspectors saw any liquor in or associated with any of the baggage of Representative Morgan or his family.

HARTMAN'S FIRST ACT GIVES HALF-HOLIDAY

New Utilities Commissioner Takes Office—Patrick Gets Oath Today.

CONTINUE LOW BUS FARE

Harleigh H. Hartman yesterday took office as a member of the Public Utilities Commission of the District. He fills the vacancy caused by the failure of the Senate to confirm the reappointment of Col. Harrison Brand, jr.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, retired, will be sworn in as a member of the commission at 10 o'clock this morning. He will fill the place left vacant by John W. Childress, chairman, whose resignation became effective yesterday.

Hartman was sworn in by Frank S. Cunningham, clerk of the District Supreme Court, who will also administer the oaths to Patrick today. Childress and Col. William B. Ladue, engineer commissioner and now senior member of the Utilities Commission, were present in the Utilities Commission board room yesterday when Hartman took the oath of office. More than a score of other District officials, including Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty, were present and offered their congratulations to the new Utilities Commissioner.

Brought up to full strength for the first time in several months, the commission held a brief meeting immediately after the administering of the oath to Hartman and the first vote of the new commissioner was cast in favor of beginning today the half-holidays on Saturdays for the commission employes. Action on this question has been delayed because of the absence of Childress from the city, and the action taken yesterday was regarded as a routine matter.

If there was any significance in the commission's actions yesterday it was found in the decision to continue for another month the "experimental" fare on the Washington, Marlboro & Annapolis motor bus line. This company asked and obtained permission to reduce its fares in the District two months ago as an "experiment." Several days ago it asked to go back to the old fare, but this was opposed by Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, who said an analysis of passenger statistics showed an increased number and justified continuation of the lower fare as a further experiment.

A meeting of the commission is expected to be held this morning after Gen. Patrick takes office, at which time the commission is to organize and elect a chairman and vice chairman. Hartman's term is for three years, while that of Patrick is for only one month, to fill the unexpired part of Childress' term, but it is expected that President Hoover expects to reappoint him immediately.

QUEST FOR DIRECTOR OF BUDGET DIFFICULT

None of Several Suggested to Succeed Lord Regarded More Than Casually.

ASSISTANT IS IN CHARGE

President Hoover is encountering considerable difficulty in finding a successor to Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, who retired yesterday from the office of director of the budget. Although several men, including Herbert D. Brown, director of the Bureau of Efficiency, have been mentioned for the post, it is understood in official circles that none has been more than casually considered.

The task of directing the Bureau of the Budget is one of the most difficult in the Government service. So far, only two men have held the post—Gen. Lord and his predecessor, former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, the present Ambassador to Great Britain.

Gen. Lord resigned from the directorship to become affiliated with the New York investment house of Arthur S. Kleeman & Co. His new position will pay him far more than he has been paid by the Government.

Pending appointment of a successor, Royal O. Klober, assistant director, is in full charge of the bureau.

President Hoover has written a letter to Gen. Lord, which follows:

"I regret intensely to accept your resignation as director of the budget.

"I realize, of course, that it is not possible for men to continue in the Government service at the remuneration the Government affords, and that I have no right to call on you for further sacrifice in the face of the opportunity that has come to you to provide some savings against old age.

"I do wish to take this occasion to voice the debt owed to you by the country for your devoted and able service and the high appreciation you have won throughout the Government in the conduct of your office."

Colored Physician Dies Of Injuries in Fracas

Dr. Byron A. Watson, a colored physician, 42 years old, of 938 T street northwest, died yesterday afternoon at Freedmen's Hospital as a result of injuries received Memorial Day during an altercation with an unidentified person at Seventh and S streets northwest.

Watson was kicked in the abdomen and was taken in a taxicab to Dr. J. Hayden Johnson, of 1842 Vermont avenue northwest, for treatment. He was later removed to the hospital. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt was notified of Watson's death, but, pending further investigation by the police, he was undecided last night as to when he would order an inquest.

Shrine at Kenmore Indorsed by Hoover

Writes That Home of Washington's Sister Should Be Preserved.

Fredericksburg, Va., May 31.—President Hoover has added his indorsement to the work of preserving and restoring Kenmore, the home of Betty Washington Lewis, sister of George Washington, located here. The mansion is owned by the Kenmore Association and is to be permanently preserved as a national shrine. Funds are now being raised to restore the property to its original beauty.

President Hoover's letter to Mrs. V. M. Fleming, president of the Kenmore Association, which has just been received, is as follows:

"Kenmore, like Mount Vernon, should become another national shrine of the gracious domestic life of the many-sided George Washington."

At the same time Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the committee, announced the Democrats on the committee would meet this morning to discuss plans for minority participation in the hearings and subsequent debate on the floor.

Unless the Senate adopts the La Follette resolution calling for public hearings by the finance committee, the testimony will be taken behind closed doors, as favored by the majority committeemen. A number of requests already have been received by the committee for the appearance of witnesses.

FARM BILL REPORT IS EXPECTED TODAY

Conference Committee to End Discussion and Present Proposal Belief.

FEAR DEBENTURE ANGLE

(Associated Press.)

Agreement upon the report to be made to the Senate and House on farm relief legislation, including a recommendation for the elimination of the export debenture plan, is expected to be reached today by the farm relief conference committee.

The report would have to be approved by both branches of Congress before the legislation could be sent to President Hoover, and yesterday chief interest was manifested on how the proposal to eliminate the debenture section would be received by the Senate.

The most recent checks of the Senate membership have been held to indicate little change in sentiment among those favoring the debenture plan. Administration leaders, however, were hopeful the opinion would prevail that speedy enactment of a farm law, considered to be possible only if debentures are eliminated, was the paramount duty of Congress, and that debenture advocates would decide to tack their proposal onto the tariff bill instead of insisting on its embodiment in farm legislation.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, chairman of the conference committee, has called a meeting for today. The conferees expect to continue their negotiations all day if necessary to complete a report before nightfall.

An early agreement on a report was made possible by the resumption of meetings yesterday as House members agreed to take up a general discussion of the two farm bills passed separately by the Senate and House, leaving the controverted debenture plan to the last. They resumed negotiations presumably upon the understanding that the Senate conferees would agree to making a report recommending the elimination of debentures.

At yesterday's meeting, the conferees decided upon the wording of the declaration of policy, and began a discussion of how many members should comprise the proposed farm board and the manner of fixing the salary of the chairman. The House bill provides for a board of six members with the chairman's salary fixed by the President. The Senate's bill would set up a farm board of 12 members, all of whose salary, including that of the chairman, would be $12,000 a year.

Conferees indicated that the final draft would recommend a board of nine, all members receiving a $12,000 annual salary.

The provisions under which stabilization corporations would be set up and operated also are different in the two bills. The Senate measure provides for Government organization and operation, but the House members would have them set up at the request of cooperative marketing agencies and with the controlling interest in the hands of the cooperatives.

The House conferees have been insistent that the Government should not operate the stabilization agencies, but that they should be left in the hands of the cooperatives. In compromising the differences between the two bills, it has been intimated that the House provisions would be retained by the conferees.

GREAT HALL OPENED BY VICE PRESIDENT

EDISON LAMP IS HONORED

Atlantic City, N. J., May 31 (A.P.).—Amid a land and sea spectacle such as this city has seldom seen before, the inauguration of the golden jubilee of light, marking the fiftieth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent lamp by Thomas A. Edison, took place today. A million electric lights blazed from end to end of the resort tonight.

The festivities also mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Atlantic City. Addressing 42,000 people assembled in the Convention Hall, Vice President Curtis said:

"Year in and year out people from all parts of the United States, even from the four corners of the earth by the millions, are attracted to his city. It is hard to conceive of a better place for a national auditorium, for a permanent exposition of the many and diverse interests of our country."

He referred to the huge auditorium which was dedicated as part of the celebration.

Sir Esme Howard, Ambassador from Great Britain, speaking as dean of the Diplomatic Corps in Washington, said: "I hope that in the days to come this auditorium may be the scene of many useful international conferences over which friendship and good will may preside, so that all knotty problems here discussed may be happily solved and this hall may thus serve the purpose of its founders and become famous in history as the home of peace. In this splendid hall we may see not only official international conferences, but international gatherings to supplement the Kellogg pact and thereby bring about the reign of law."

BRITAIN'S ELECTION.

Thursday's election in Great Britain destroyed the Conservative majority and gave the Labor party the lead over all others, but not a majority. Ramsay MacDonald does not become prime minister by virtue of party power, and probably he will not gain power at all. Unless he can count upon a makeshift majority by winning Liberal support he must await another opportunity for applying socialism and communism to England.

It seems probable that Mr. Baldwin will be supported by a sufficient number of Liberals to make up a majority and carry on the government. Mr. Lloyd George and other Liberal leaders gave notice during the campaign that they would not form a coalition with the Laborites under any consideration. They may have lost votes by this declaration, but the Liberals hold the balance of power and can decide whether Mr. MacDonald or Mr. Baldwin shall head the government.

The coalition that will now take command is destined to die early, from all appearances. The country is not satisfied with the conduct of affairs by the Conservatives, and yet it mistrusts the Laborites and Liberals. The narrow escape of Sir Austen Chamberlain discloses the principal reason for popular opposition to the Baldwin government. The people do not approve of Chamberlain's conduct of foreign relations. He is held responsible in large part for the coolness that marks Anglo-American relations and for the tangled state of affairs in other parts of the world. His chief accomplishment, the Locarno pact, has failed to restore the confidence of Europe, and his poorly concealed opposition to the Kellogg treaty has turned a large percentage of British voters against him. Twenty-two votes cast the other way would have relegated him to private life.

If the majority of voters in Great Britain are still opposed to socialism and the drift to communism they will favor a coalition between the Conservatives and Liberals whereby Stanley Baldwin will be enabled to remain in power. But he will be expected to reorganize his cabinet and eliminate the influences that made his administration a failure. A more resolute leadership on his part, with less sacrifice of national interest to his sense of loyalty to blundering colleagues, would help greatly. Possibly by judicious concessions to legitimate demands of labor and by the adoption of some portions of Lloyd George's economic reform program Mr. Baldwin can carry on for an indefinite time, but in view of the intractability of labor and the tendency of Lloyd George to fly off on a tangent it seems more probable that another election will be necessary in the near future.

Great Britain is undergoing a cruel experience as a result of war changes. The nation is not sound economically, and its people have not yet decided what to do to save themselves. They have worked wonders in view of the staggering problems that confront them, but their greatest effort must yet be made if they are to restore prosperity and escape a plunge into the bottomless bog of socialism. Unemployment, despair, and drink hang over the people like a pall. Hundreds of thousands have desperately chosen socialism rather than endure conditions that seem to have no end or cure. The more intelligent have resisted the deadly approach of sugar-coated bolshevism, but dissensions among the leaders have given little hope for combined action in restoring sound economic conditions based upon democracy. The woman vote has helped to increase the ranks of Labor in Parliament; and this is a backward step that must be retrieved if the Britain of old is to revive and flourish.

THE BOARD AND THE MARKET.

Several meetings of the Federal Reserve Board have been held since the advisory council recommended that it permit its member banks, if they so desired, to increase the rediscount rate to 6 per cent, but no action has been taken. On Wednesday the board held a long meeting behind closed doors with Secretary Mellon in attendance, and the rate was not boosted. Apparently the statement made a while ago by Governor Young, that a rate raise would be made only as a last resort, is to stand. Certainly, if the rate was to have been raised the board would have taken the step on Wednesday, with the following day a holiday.

Business alone would suffer were the rediscount rate raised. Wall street speculators prefer cheap money, naturally, but they will speculate, no matter what they must pay for money. If credit were made dearer for business it might possibly develop that an increased fund would become available for speculation, and the net result would be injury to business with little or no effect on market speculation. It may be presumed that the Federal Reserve Board took this fact in mind in turning down the suggestion of the advisory council.

Possibly, too, the board believes that its aims have been attained. The stock price level has been reduced materially, and loans to brokers have been decreased. The market, however, remains uneasy, and until stability is restored the situation can not be considered satisfactory. Market speculators do not care whether the market moves upward or downward. When the bulls quit the bears put in their appearance. If overspeculation is to be curbed, it is highly important that the market be steadied.

If the market is allowed to run its natural course from this time forward, without action or comment by the Federal Reserve Board, conditions will adjust themselves satisfactorily.

KING GEORGE V.

The world learns with deep distress that King George V is again dangerously ill. His relapse is a portentous event which arouses anxiety and apprehension on account of his weakened condition and his delicate constitution. The saving of his life during his recent illness was a triumph of medical skill, and it is now hoped that, with favorable weather conditions, his physicians will face less critical problems in dealing with his relapse.

The King of England has been every inch a king in his fight for life. His courage has been a powerful if not controlling factor in the long struggle against adverse physical and climatic conditions. Now another demand is made upon his reduced strength. The prayers of millions go up in his behalf, and the world's sympathy may help to sustain his courage as he faces the fresh ordeal. The men of all nations admire King George because he is a brave man, who has met all misfortunes with fortitude and undaunted spirit. May he win this dreadful battle with strength to spare!

THE BIG SUICIDE RATE.

Frederick L. Hoffman, life insurance statistician, has prepared statistics showing the suicide rate in the United States for 1928 to be the highest since 1916. In 96 principal cities the rate last year was 17.5 per 100,000 population. This is considerably below the maximum rate of 21.5 reached in 1908, but the report notes that the tendency is toward a higher rate.

In view of the generally high living standards prevailing in America this condition is not easily understood. Nor is the relative position of cities on the suicide list immediately comprehensible. San Diego, one of California's most charming and prosperous cities, has the alarming rate of 43.7. Next on the list comes San Francisco, Tacoma, Atlantic City, Oakland, Sacramento, Seattle, Terre Haute, Denver and Portland, Oreg. New York's rate is somewhat above average, but those of Chicago, Detroit and Philadelphia are below the average for the country as a whole. The despondency which leads to suicide is apparently more operative in the medium-sized Western cities than in the great crowded centers of the East.

It is apparent from this study that dissatisfaction with life sufficiently intense to result in suicide does not necessarily arise from poverty and want. Increased prosperity makes competition greater and misfortune seem more severe. In spite of the greater ease with which the average workingman makes his living today, there is no doubt an increased nervous tension brought about by the continuous complication of life. The statistician's report concluded that "there are reasons for believing that in many respects present-day life is thoroughly unwholesome in large sections of the population which find it difficult to maintain a standard of life presupposing incessant anxiety and toil."

Causes of suicide are difficult to arrive at. The report cites neurological disorders, the suggestive publicity given to suicides, and frantic efforts to live beyond one's means and position as the foremost causes. But each case is as complex as life. The problem can not be dealt with by the courts or law enforcement officers, and the offenders can not be punished. Yet it is distressing to realize that 35,000 to 40,000 persons attempt self-destruction each year, causing approximately 15,000 deaths. The number far exceeds the homicides.

SUMMER VACATIONS.

According to astronomical calculations summer is still 21 days away. But the weather pays little attention to official dates, and the people in a large portion of America look upon June 1 as the beginning of the summer season. To the great majority summer means vacations, travel, hikes, outdoor sports and recreation of every kind.

Americans are addicted to the vacation habit. The person who does not spend a week, or several weeks, away from his place of employment is the exception rather than the rule. The call of the open road, the woods, fishing streams, mountain lakes and seashore meets almost universal response. Even those who are denied long trips or who do not care for travel will find recreation and refreshment in week-end jaunts away from the cities. The beauties of nature, which are never more superb than in June, lure every one, from the President to the humblest citizen, congressmen included.

Within a short time the annual movement toward the State and national parks will be fully under way. There will be a still greater trek to the unsettled places of the West. Untold thousands will find their way to Canada and the Northern States to get a breath of cooler air. Other tens of thousands will be off for Europe.

The American Automobile Association estimates that 44,000,000 tourists—more than one-third of the population of the United States—made long motor trips last year. Several million more automobiles and improved railway and bus facilities are available for this summer's travel. The ease with which the continent can be crossed is inducing motorists to visit the national parks in the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Slope. They meet Western motorists who are headed for Washington and New England.

The American people are in a better position than ever before to enjoy a summer respite from their routine of life, and the country is better equipped to accommodate them. The investment by the Government in extensive summer vacation lands is one of the most profitable that has been made. The millions spent by tourists in visiting them each year bring a return in health and pleasure that can only be appreciated by those who join in the movement.

DEADLY AIRPLANE NOISE

By VIRGINIA MAY BROWN.

The suggestion that an airport be located near the city should arouse a protest from every citizen. Surely the human beings who live here deserve as much consideration as the animals in the Cincinnati Zoo, whose manager last year requested postal and airport authorities to change the route of airplane lines so as to avoid the zoo. The animals took panic, he said, every time they heard a plane.

The following protests to the same effect have been made in different parts of the country:

"Millville, N. J.—Poultry raisers on the State road between Millville and Bridgeton made complaint today that the noise made by aeroplanes at the Bethel landing field has so frightened the hens that they have failed to lay.

A later complaint comes from Lincoln, Nebr., where Emil A. Glatt went into court claiming his hens had been frightened so badly by aircraft that egg production had been reduced almost to zero, most of the baby chicks and several hundred hens had been scared to death, and cows and hogs made nervous and afraid. He brought suit for $10,500 damages.

From Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., comes a story of six mother foxes that were seen frantically burying their offspring when a plane passed over, and in Grafton, Mass., the establishment of an airport has not only affected the nerves of the citizens but has affected the cows and chickens to such an extent that the supply of milk and eggs has diminished alarmingly.

In this city a young woman recently committed suicide after complaining of the noise of typewriters in the room in which she was employed. Her nervous energy had doubtless been already reduced to the lowest point by the combined discord of all the other noises that afflict us in this day and generation. Noise or sound vibration is known to be a destroyer of nerve force.

It was doubtless an instinctive consciousness of this fact which caused the mother foxes to try to protect their young from the deadly vibrations by burying them alive. The pitiful attempt was futile, as every one who has tried to shut out the disintegrating sound by stopping his ears well knows. Airplane noises seem to penetrate everything and there is no escape until the plane is far in the distance.

It is reported that Dr. R. W. Wood, professor of physics at Johns Hopkins, has found that "high frequency sound waves can burn and cause other miracles without heat or chemical action." Although these effects are supposed to be produced by inaudible sound waves only, the disastrous results of the airplane roar suggests that there is something akin in them.

A newspaper article headed "Noises Destroy Health" states: "A great antinoise movement has spread throughout England and the effort is being made to suppress or at least reduce the noises, many of them totally unnecessary, in the cities and towns. In this connection the statement has been made that the economic loss due to the impairment in working capacity through noise throughout England amounts to a sum equal to $5,000,000 per week. The resultant illness and number of deaths can not be estimated. The statement is made that, although a person becomes accustomed to a noise and does not appear to notice it, there is still a very serious effect being worked upon the nerves."

It would seem, therefore, that it is not merely the sound that affects living creatures, but a destructive vibration that acts upon the living organism.

We may recall that France since the war has developed a great fleet of airplanes, and that the citizens of that country have protested against the horrible noise they make. Probably these facts may furnish an explanation of the decreasing human vitality in France, as shown by the following dispatch from Paris:

"The French press is alarmed by the publication of statistics showing the steady increase in the death rate for the last three years. In 1923 the deaths exceeded births by 16.9 per cent; in 1924 by 17.3 per cent and in 1925 by 18 per cent. Official figures show that deaths exceeded births in 45 provinces out of 89."

This subject should be thoroughly investigated before the country enters largely into the manufacture of airplanes. Some light might result from learning the relative exposure to airplane noise of those 45 provinces in France in which deaths exceeded births and those in which the births predominated.

No one who values human life and health and has given consideration to the above facts, would advocate placing airports near cities.

Bloc Government.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

In the old days, as you know, good fairies gave the princess a charm to protect her from evil. How the charm was made I do not know, but here is one formed of words that will enable you to avoid traps and pitfalls and will save you many a blister and heartache.

It consists of eight words: Make all important decisions in the early morning.

To the casual observer that will seem common-place and insignificant, as all charms do, but truly it will protect you from harm, and here is the why and the wherefore of it.

It begins in the beginning, when man had need of nimble legs and a sharp eye to avoid serving as some great cat's dinner. Because his enemies were numerous, he took his rest with his back against a tree or the wall of his cave and thus guarded against attack from the rear.

That business of protecting his back became race instinct, and now fashionable restaurant patrons choose a table against a wall without knowing why they do it.

Many of our present peculiarities may be traced to the habits of our ancestors, and it is because of your ancestors that you must not make decisions at night.

Their nights were peopled with terrors, real and imaginary, and they never were quite rational after dark. Moreover, darkness protected them from the eyes of their neighbors, and they developed a race habit of doing evil after nightfall.

This race habit, or instinct, never has been outgrown; and now men not only do evil at night but do and say reckless things that seem foolish next day and make great plans that are worthless when the sun comes up again.

There is another reason, also, why decisions should be made when the day is young.

"Weeping may endure for a night," said the prophet, "but joy cometh in the morning."

At night the mind is tired; the nerves are tired; the emotions are unworthy of trust.

How many times I have heard you mention algebra or geometry problems that were stupid and meaningless as bedtime and crystal clear when you attacked them before breakfast next morning.

When sleep has rested your tired wits and the morning sun brings a new confidence and you rejoice in a sense of well-being, as your ancestors did when the terrors of night were gone, then your mind functions with the nice precision of a good machine and you can trust it.

When night brings any question—especially that vital question on which a woman's future happiness depends—refuse to give an answer until you can step out-of-doors in the bright sunlight of early morning.

You will make many mistakes, my dear; but you won't make any stupid ones while the dew sparkles.

DAD.

CURRENT AND ICE.

During 1928 approximately 72,000,000 tons of ice were used in the United States for refrigeration purposes, says New England Utility News. Of this amount 61,000,000 tons were manufactured, principally by steam or electric power. An analysis of artificial ice manufactured in the Middle West shows that 32 per cent of such plants are steam driven, 59 per cent electric and 9 per cent operated by gas or oil engines. Assuming that these percentages can be extended to the production of ice, it would follow that 19,500,000 tons were produced by steam power, 36,000,000 tons by electricity and 5,500,000 tons by gas and oil. Assuming an average current consumption of 63 KWH per ton of ice produced, the amount of electric power used for making ice in the United States during 1928 was 2,232,000,000 KWH.

Cold storage systems, which produce a cooling effect directly instead of through the medium of ice, also consume a large amount of electric power, estimated to be in excess of 310,000,000 KWH annually. Domestic consumption of electricity for refrigeration purposes is estimated to be 630,000,000 KWH annually. Small commercial installations of various kinds used in shops, dairies and other food process plants consume in excess of 584,000,000 KWH, making a grand total of electric energy used for refrigeration purposes in the United States of 3,757,263,000 KWH annually.

FISH FUEL.

Fish as fuel for a steamer at sea is something new, but that sort of fuel saved the Norwegian steamer, Elna, in a voyage from Iceland to Aberdeen, when severe storms caused the use of all fuel provided when the steamer was only half way over her course, says the Ohio State Journal. The ship had a cargo of dried fish and an abundance of paraffin, so the wise old skipper seized nearly a hundred barrels of fish, coated them heavily with paraffin, then fed them into the firebox in fine order and the steamer up and finished her journey. The skipper was complimented by the ship owners and his inventive genius attracted much attention.

STOCKING THE OCEAN.

Stocking a private pond or trout stream is a simple matter—though most who try it fail—compared to stocking the ocean, observes the New York Herald Tribune. Yet the art of fishing, which used to be an individual talent, is yielding to modernism, like anything else, and is rapidly becoming decimatingly scientific. The sea is not eternally filled with fish, and more marine species than one show definite signs of reduction.

Of course, the fish that run in both fresh and salt water were first to feel the growing pressure of man's appetite for sea food. Shad and salmon long ago showed the effects of overfishing, but the problems of their spawning were fairly simple. It is now possible to restock large areas with them, and it is being done. The striped bass of the East Coast has even been transplanted to the Pacific with abundant success.

But we do not know where the weakfish and the bluefish spawn. The weakfish turn up already half an inch long, the bluefish somewhat smaller. With careful study it should be possible to find their breeding grounds and then, possibly, to increase their numbers. The movements of marine fish are still somewhat of a mystery. The annals of fishermen since Colonial days show periodic tides in the abundance of the chief food fishes—they disappear for long periods, then come back in great numbers. Perhaps the present scarcity of bluefish will remedy itself; but it is at any rate encouraging that so able a scientist as Albert Parr, of the Bingham Oceanographic Laboratory at Yale, is going to start out on the trail of the bluefish and the weakfish.

Science thus far has applied itself more to the catching of fish than to their multiplication. We know, for instance, that some years the entire crop of young codfish is wiped out, while in other years the eggs hatch at precisely the most favorable time and send vast numbers of young cod wriggling into a friendly Atlantic. But we do not know precisely what conditions are favorable and what not, nor have we solved the problem of rearing baby cod past the critical stage. If we continue fishing without learning, it will not always be true that there are as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Who Marches Next Memorial Day?" Dwindling Line of Old Veterans. Hall's Eloquent Poem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Will you gratify an old soldier who served from April, 1861, to September, 1865, in the cause of the Union, by printing the following verses taken from a poem written a few years ago by Charles Winslow Hall, entitled "Who Marches Next Memorial Day?" There were not a great many of us left to march on Memorial Day, and the number will be far smaller next year. Soon there will be none of us left to march to the graves of our comrades. I know the old veterans will appreciate it if you will give to the public the verses.

OLD VETERAN.

Who marches next Memorial Day?
Speak up, brave comrades! let men say
"The Post turns out in force this year"—
Grant's veterans, Sherman's infantry;
Sheridan's tireless cavalry,
Farragut's sea-dogs without peer;
Tireless and fearless in the past,
Bear yourselves proudly to the last,
Though years fly fast and death draws near.

Who'll bear the dear old Flag—the bright
Tri-colored banner, red and white
As sunset's glory, spotless snow,
On whose broad field of heavenly blue
The golden stars of statehood true
Like bivouac fires divinely glow?
'Tis but a wisp of silk; the staff
Like a boy's light wand. You laugh—
They seemed so forty years ago.

Whom shall we miss Memorial Day?
Well is it that long years allay
The burdens of the laboring heart
In joy or sorrow, for the list
Is long of loved ones we have missed
From camp and banquet, field and mart:
In ancient foray, field or fray,
And peaceful deathbeds passed away,
They from our hearts were torn apart.

What shall we say Memorial Day?
That we tread fearlessly the way
From Manhood's prime to Age's frost
As in the grand, grim past we trod
The wine press of the Wrath of God
Regardless of the pain or cost;
That still we prize o'er wealth and power
Our fatherland, and Freedom's dower,
For which such precious lives were lost.

Independent Oil Producer Says There Is No Waste in the West—He Denounces the Petroleum Institute.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read in the press the comment of your paper stating now that the only obstacle in the way of conserving the Nation's oil resources is the development fever which afflicts many if not all of the Western States. In reply I will say that you undoubtedly are laboring under a most unintelligent opinion of the situation as it really exists in the Western States.

There is absolutely no waste of oil in the Western States. The States of Oklahoma and Texas have a commission that prevents the waste of oil and gas, and it is being strictly followed. These tactics are being used as a camouflage by the American Petroleum Institute to get certain laws enacted for the benefit of a few. The Mid-Continent field is now drawing on storage at the rate of about 90,000 barrels per day. What would you have the oil industry do? Hold our own supplies in the ground while a few of the big companies import, as they are doing today, from three to four hundred thousand barrels of oil per day from South America?

The country is being flooded with propaganda by the American Petroleum Institute which is misleading. I have been an independent producer in Oklahoma for the last fifteen years and am quite familiar with the situation.

W. R. RAMSEY.

Oklahoma City, May 29 (by telegraph).

Too High Tariff Will Work Harm at Home and Abroad and Bring a Democratic House.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Apropos of your editorial on the pending tariff bill, do you think the proposed increased duty on sugar the only blunder the bill contains? Reasonable protection to American industry is a sound policy, and is generally approved of by a majority of our people, but the Republicans have evidently interpreted the recent election as a mandate to go the limit in increasing duties.

This bill, if passed, will have the following inevitable results: It will cause retaliatory action against us by other nations, thereby greatly diminishing our export trade. It will add greatly to the already high costs of living in the United States. It will dimmish the purchasing power of our people, and curtail their consumption of manufactured products and those of the farm. This will in turn hurt, and not help the farmer. It will create a feeling of resentment on the part of the farmer and the consuming public, which in turn will make it a safe hundred-to-one bet that if this bill should be passed in its present form the Democrats will carry the House of Representatives in the next election.

ALEXANDER SIDNEY LANIER.

Census Could Be Taken Quickly, Cheaply and Accurately by Postoffice Employes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a nation how crude we are about some things! We are about to set up a great machine to take the census, when we have the machinery of the postoffice, operating perfectly, even in the smallest most far-away political subdivision.

A little overtime pay to the postoffice force, with the employment of State and district census supervisors, and the work of enumeration could be done almost overnight, leaving the work of tabulation and publication to the regularly organized census bureau. Further, with the enumeration by postal employes, paid extra, the census would be more nearly correct than it has been for the last two decades.

But neither this nor the next census will be taken by any new or practical method. Too many of our more or less incompetent constituents want the short-term $50 patronage jobs, and the bureaus will hang on.

Navy's "Flying Secretary" Is Polo Enthusiast

Mr. Ingalls Has Brought Four Fine Ponies to Capital.

By JEAN ELIOT.

ALTHOUGH most of his fame as a sportsman was gained through his adventure in the air, Dr. David Sinton Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, is a polo enthusiast. Moreover, he plays a corking game and proved it when he made his debut on the Potomac Park field the other day, playing in a match between two of the Army teams. He has brought four mettlesome polo ponies to Washington and presumably will do a good deal of playing while the season lasts.

Since he is "batching" it for the moment, Mr. Ingalls is living at the Anchorage, but he has leased for next winter the house at 2839 Woodland Drive, which was built by Mr. and Mrs. Timothy T. Ansberry. He will take possession in the autumn, when Mrs. Ingalls, who was Miss Louise Harkness, will come to town. And meanwhile, Senator Bronson Cutting is to have the house for the summer months.

Mr. Ingalls had an adventurous career as a flier in the war. Indeed, if memory serves, he was the only Navy ace. More recently, when serving as a member of the Ohio Legislature, he used to "commute" by plane between Columbus and his home near Cleveland.

The Navy seems to be specializing in sportsmen nowadays, for both the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Jahncke, are famous yachtsmen. In New Orleans, which is his home, Mr. Jahncke is generally known as "Commodore Jahncke," a title to which he clings with affection and by which his friends here are beginning to call him.

Loans on Securities Fall Off.

A record falling off in loans on securities to brokers and dealers was revealed yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's statement on condition of weekly reporting member banks in central reserve cities, showing a total of $5,288,000,000, a decline of $232,000,000 under the previous week. This was an increase of $819,000,000 over the week ended May 29, 1928, however.

In the loans "for own account," amounting to $773,000,000, a decrease of $54,000,000 under the preceding week and one of $392,000,000 under the corresponding period a year ago, are recorded and those "for account of out-of-town banks," aggregating $1,540,000,000, represented a decrease of $111,000,000 under the week prior and one of $68,000,000 under the comparative period a year ago. Loans "for account of others" amounted to $2,975,000,000, which was a decrease of $67,000,000 under those of a week ago, but an increase of $1,333,000,000 over those of the corresponding week last year.

Bright, of the clearing house association.

Week's Commercial Transactions.

Commercial transactions during the week ended May 25 as reflected by check payments were more than in either the preceding week or the corresponding period of 1928, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce on business conditions.

Steel plants showed a decline in activity from the previous week, but were a great deal more active than during the comparative period a year ago. Crude petroleum output for the latest reported week showed an increase from both prior periods, and the output of bituminous coal declined from the previous week, but was larger than for the same week of 1928. # BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

If it might not be considered too presumptuous, I should like to make the suggestion that that "Hear and See" title employed on trailers announcing forthcoming attractings on our local screens be tossed into the ashcan, scrapped, set on fire or otherwise removed from its present sphere of uselessness.

There can be, of course, no objection to the plain statement of fact that a future offering will embody both animated action upon the screen and sound from behind it, but there are many in the audiences who feel that the dotted line running across the screen from the word "hear" to a poorly drawn ear, and another one running likewise from the word "see" to an equally faulty bit of draughtsmanship depicting a human eye, is no longer necessary to convey the physiological idea that the eye sees and the ear hears.

The widespread anxiety that has enveloped Washington since last Monday evening no doubt will be largely dissipated by the announcement of the safe return to location at Annapolis, Md., of Mr. Stepin Fetchit, the Senegambian comic, who mysteriously disappeared after two personal appearances at the Fox Theater five days ago.

Mr. Fetchit, a screen comedian upon whom the responsibility of business obligations rests lightly, wandered into the Fox last Monday in search of cash, and, in appreciation of the accommodation accorded him, appeared twice in person before the screen upon which he was appearing in the shadow in the "Movietone Follies." He then departed into the night, and nothing more was heard of him until the afternoon of Memorial Day, when he wandered desolately back to work with the John Ford unit making a new Fox picture, "Salute," in and around the Naval Academy.

C. F. Winchester, manager of the Fox and Mr. Fetchit's fiscal benefactor upon the occasion of his recent financial embarrassment while on a holiday motor jaunt, observed "Swifty" leaning against a tree sound asleep just outside of Annapolis awaiting a call for personal services from John Ford, the director.

That, for Mr. Fetchit, is a normal day's work!

Eleanor Griffith, the Washington girl who makes her local screen debut in the principal feminine role in "Alibi," at the Columbia this week, began her stage career in this city in the Garrick Theater Stock Company, of which Earle Foxe and Lynn Overman also were members and Monte Bell was part owner. In 1922 Miss Griffith appeared locally as a member of the stock company occupying the boards at the Belasco Theater.

Her last Washington engagement was with John Halliday in "The Spider," also at the Belasco, which by an odd coincidence is the current bill of Mr. Cochran's National Theater Players. More recently she was a member of the company supporting Mrs. Fiske in her revival of "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh."

In March, Miss Griffith became the wife of John Halliday, who is now playing in Chicago in "Jealousy." In the near future they plan to make talking pictures together.

Two young men of extraordinarily broad experience are responsible for the many unique qualities that reveal themselves during the screening of the Warner Brothers' production of "Noah's Ark," the current feature at the Metropolitan.

Michael Curtiz, who had the colossal task of directing "Noah's Ark," was born in Budapest, Hungary. He was educated at the University of Budapest and the Hungarian Royal Theatrical Academy, and became prominent both as actor and stage manager in his native city. He has spent years in Berlin, Rome, Paris and Copenhagen, and is a thorough cosmopolite. He was with Max Reinhardt when he produced "Oedipus Rex."

After his services in the World War, he went to Vienna, where he directed seventeen pictures. After several years he returned to Berlin and continued to produce screen plays. A few years ago he came to America and signed with the Warners, for whom he has made, among others, "The Third Degree," "A Million Bid," "Tenderloin" and "Good Time Charley."

Darryl Francis Zanuck, author of "Noah's Ark" and associate executive at the Warner studios, was born at Wahoo, Nebr., where he received his education. Upon the entry of the United States into the World War, Mr. Zanuck enlisted in the 37th Division and was sent overseas, where he participated in three major offensives. When the regular correspondent for "Stars and Stripes" with his outfit was killed in action, Zanuck volunteered to take his place and so acquired his first writing experience. He enjoyed it so much that on returning home he took up the writing of short stories. He met with immediate success.

Early in 1921 he suggested a plot for a picture to the late William Russell, who produced it for release through Fox. Today he is one of the most prolific writers for the screen.

It would be all right with me if they would make up their minds just what voice it is that is going to take Ramon Novarro into grand opera. When tales of his rich vocal endowment first began to trickle into the public prints, it was my understanding that he was a barytone.

Now come the trailers on "The Pagan" and the scholarly brochures dedicated to that inflammatory study of life in the South Seas indited by one Sam Rubin, Mr. Loew's cherubic publicist, all of which refer to Senor Novarro as a tenor.

I sincerely trust he will not turn out to be a boy soprano!

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE SILLY SEASON ALOFT.

This is evidently to be a season of airplane stunt orgies. You can't look aloft these days without seeing a couple of birdmen trying to set a new world's record for unnecessary foolishness. No longer is there any point in looking up at an airplane and wondering when it will land. It may be up for the summer.

* * * *

Two Fort Worth birdmen were recently in the air more than a week without once coming down for a change of pajamas, new razor blades or the daily newspapers. They "lit" only when their plane began to grow obsolete.

* * * *

Two French army pilots flew 26 hours continuously at an average speed of 111.78 miles an hour, establishing a new world's record for day and night joy riding, and definitely proving that aviation has reached a point where aerial traffic cops will have to work on 24-hour shifts.

* * * *

Before the summer is over there may be contests to see which naval flier can open the most oysters while flying upside down around the Washington Monument, or which Army airman can eat the largest number of raspberry pies over the State of Kansas.

* * * *

The feat of Robbins and Kelly in remaining aloft seven days proves that an airplane is not only a vehicle of transportation but a vacation resort.

* * * *

It just goes to show how long a letter can be held up by aerial mail if a flier is in the mood.

* * * *

But it is all so futile. When these two airmen finished their seven-day flight they were still over Texas. Lindy flew only two days, but when he came down he was in Paris. This makes Lindy seem smarter than ever.

* * * *

The Texas birdmen covered more mileage than Lindy, but they opened no more new routes than a squirrel in a cage. They didn't even capture the national imagination. In this practical age few people can see any sense flying a week and never getting out of the one neighborhood.

* * *

Still, the craze for aerial stunts is on and the first thing you know some airmen are going to stay in the clouds for two weeks. Then a couple of fliers will remain up for a month.

* * * *

And ultimately there will be the grand climax: Some fellow will go up in the air and decided not to come down until Senator Heflin is elected President!

Wall Street Mistakes.

I bought a little U. S. Steel
To see it soar much higher;
My broker he advised me to,
But he's an awful liar!

Radio will make you rich
And so will Nash and Can,
And so will Kennecott or Mack,
And so will your old man!

Everybody's Doing It.

"What's the matter with you? You're poking all around the house peering into every nook and corner; what're you looking for?"

"Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. Shush!"

Woman Sues to Obtain Custody of 2 Children

Suit to compel her husband, William A. Fowler, of Oxon Hill, Md., to carry out terms of a separation contract was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Lillian B. Fowler. By the terms of the alleged agreement, entered into between the parties on April 7, 1927, Mrs. Fowler stated her husband agreed to place their children, William H. Fowler, 10 years old, and Catherine O. Fowler, 7 years old, in St. Joseph's School and St. Vincent's Home.

Fowler instead took the children to his mother's home in Oxon Hill, Mrs. Fowler declared, and she has been denied the privilege of having the children visit her. She asked the court to allow her temporary custody of two days a week of the children and to compel her husband to return them to the District. Attorney Walter P. Plumley appeared for Mrs. Fowler.

Wheat to Take Office As Justice on Monday

Alfred A. Wheat will take the oath of associate justice of the District Supreme Court on Monday at 3:30 o'clock in the courthouse from Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy. Mr. Wheat's nomination was recently confirmed by the Senate. The new justice will receive members of the bar and friends immediately after taking office.

For the last eight years Mr. Wheat has been employed as Assistant Solicitor General in the Department of Justice. He attended Columbian University—now George Washington University—law school and was a classmate of Justice Peyton Gordon. Mr. Wheat was formerly an instructor in Central High School and played a prominent part in the founding of Business High School.

Legion Flag Day Program To Be on Air

10,000 Posts and 6,800 Units of Auxiliary to Tune in on Friday, June 14; World Peace to Be Discussed.

Members of approximately 10,000 posts of the American Legion and almost 6,800 units of the Legion Auxiliary will observe Flag Day by tuning in the evening of Friday, June 14, on a special radio program which will be broadcast over coast-to-coast networks of the National Broadcasting Co. The legion Flag Day radio broadcast has been arranged with a view of interesting the public as well as the more than 1,000,000 members of the legion and auxiliary by S. L. Rothafel (Roxy), of New York, chairman of the national radio committee of the legion.

Practical plans for world peace will be presented on the radio broadcast program by three nationally known speakers. They are Frank B. Kellogg, of St. Paul, Minn., former Secretary of State; William Fortune, of Indianapolis, national president of the American Peace Society, and Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the legion. There will be in addition an entertainment prepared by Martha L. Wilchinski and with a cast from Roxy's Theater in New York.

The time of this national broadcast will be 9 to 10 o'clock, Eastern standard time. Roxy will be in charge of the program. The dramatization by Miss Wilchinski traces the significance of important events through which our flag has passed. There will be incidental music by the Roxy Symphony Orchestra, chorus soloists and a supporting cast.

Quinn Ryan, veteran announcer of WGN, Chicago, broadcaster of debys, world championship fights, great football games and national conventions, has had his ticklish moments on the air. In a recent interview, he told of the first of many thousands of speeches he has made into the microphone.

"My first experience with broadcasting," he said, "before coming into business, was in making an address in behalf of the drive to purchase the Stuart portrait of George Washington for the Art Institute.

"The microphone was on a pedestal against the wall, and I talked with my back to the audience in the studio. I actually quaked all through the stirring harangue, because I imagined everybody in the room was laughing at me; but the opinions of the great audience outside bothered me not a bit."

---

Dr. Durkee was addressing a microphone in Old King's Chapel, Boston. A boyhood chum, Capt. McKinnon, was walking down a street in Monkton, New Brunswick, 1,500 miles away, and heard a hauntingly familiar voice coming out of a loud speaker in a radio show.

He stopped, listened, decided it was his friend Durkee, and went in to hear the rest of the sermon.

Dr. Durkee is very much interested in the "mike," and is going seriously about the business of mastering the technique of radio delivery. He is pastor of Old Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, made famous by Henry Ward Beecher and a line of famous preachers.

It has been estimated that less than 5 per cent of the singers given audition are found to have voices suitable for broadcasting.

After Dark—And Before

ONE of America's smartest women was complaining the other day about the havoc daylight saving time was playing with her evening wardrobe. Her most attractive slippers, in night light, prove a sickly green as she emerges in the still light hours to keep a dinner engagement. Another woman decries the fact that she feels decidedly conspicuous appearing in the daylight in her luxurious evening wrap.

Consequently, the mode in the East must adapt itself to this economic measure, and the mode in the other parts of the country to the naturally lengthened hours of summer-time. And it can be done most successfully with forethought as to colors and to models.

For instance, colors must be considered both in the day and night lights. For town wear, very brilliant shades are apt to look harsh or out of place before the sun sets, and the softer, more subtle tones are the better choices.

A perfect compromise between the daytime and evening mode is illustrated here. The short tailored jacket of this printed silk ensemble follows the hipline of the gown beneath it. With a close turban and crepe de chine slippers, a woman may feel her smartest self in a restaurant, and when the coat is discarded and the turban removed, she will be a chic addition to a theater and dancing party. The gown gains especial distinction from the two long panels falling from the hip-line to below the hem.

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk.

PROBABLY you have sen pictures with the question underneath, "What's wrong with this picture?" They are often good fun.

Now I am going to tell you a couple of stroies and see whether you can figure out what is wrong with them.

"There was a great scientist from Yale University who went to Egypt and Mesopotamia to look for old coins. He found many of them, including one with the head of Alexander the Great, another with the date 99 B. C., and still another bearing the image of a ruler of Egypt."

What part of that paragraph can not be true?

The other story is this:

"A certain man did not like to go to church on Sunday. Instead he would stay at home and read. His wife, on the other hand, always went to church, and she used to scold him. One Sunday morning the man decided to take a walk. It had been raining, but the clouds had cleared away and the sky was bright.

"After walking a good distance, the man grew tired. He noticed that he was near the church his wife attended, so he went inside. The minister was preaching a long sermon, and the man fell asleep.

"In his sleep the man dreamed. He thought that he was in a war. Turks were galloping after him with sharp sabers ready to strike.

"It is said that if a man is blindfolded, and drop after drop of water is let fall on his arm, he may die from fright if he is told that he is bleeding to death. In the same way, fright might bring death if it were mixed with a dream.

"It so happened that the man's wife caught sight of him as she was leaving church. She saw that he was asleep and heard him snoring. She was not a polite woman, and in her anger she reached out her umbrella and poked him on the neck with the point.

"Just at that moment, the man was dreaming that a Turk was striking him on the neck with a saber. The terrible fright killed him on the instant, and the wife no longer had even a husband who read at home on Sunday mornings!"

The trouble with the first story is that coins were never marked B. C. Neither the Egyptians nor the Persians knew that Christ was going to be born. The trouble with the second story is that if the man died on the instant, no one would know what he had been dreaming.

What Today Means to You

June 1.

By MARY BLAKE.

"GEMINI."

IF June 1 is your birthday, the best hours for you are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

The signs prognosticate an atmosphere of unrest. You will feel unsettled in your mind, and the day will end with much unfinished business and many unsatisfactory interviews with friends and associates.

The child born on June 1 will have a fiery, impetuous, mecurial and unsettled nature. It will have many talents but will lack persevering qualities and untiring energy, both of which are essential for their proper development. It will be very generous and large-hearted.

The most outstanding characteristic which you possess is your pluck, which will carry you through many a struggle unscarred. You are a man or woman of courage, intelligence and thoroughness. You will never fail for the lack of trying, or because you have not done your best. In an unegotistical way, you believe that what others have done, you can do, and possibly better. You always place your better foot forward, and you display your talents in an unaffected and a natural manner. At all times, and under all circumstances, it can be said of you that you are decent and honorable.

You are a useful member in whatever social strata you find yourself, and you work for the good of mankind. You have a very rigid conception of fair play, and you never cheat yourself or others. Any form of snobbery or hypocrisy you hate. There are no cards up your sleeve; they are all laid, face up, on the table.

You have a natural liking for mechanics, which is demonstrated in your occupation and recreation. You have useful hands, which obey the dictates of your mind—you can do both mental and physical work.

Women born today possess the indulgent affection and the wise tact that most successful marriages demand, and a great deal of marital happiness is augured for them.

Redfield Proctor, lawyer.

Electric Fete Broadcast on Air Tonight

McNamee Will Describe Spectacular Illumination at Atlantic City at 8; Cavalcade Will Return on WRC at 7 P. M.

A description by Graham McNamee of the electrical display at the second night of Atlantic City's 'Festival of Light" and a special concert depicting the history of light as told by composers will be broadcast as the General Electric Hour at 8 o'clock tonight through a National Broadcasting Co. hookup, including Station WRC.

McNamee will describe the spectacular illumination along the boardwalk and surf, where flaming braziers of light and a 75-foot "jewelled arch," together with colored floodlights projecting rainbow effects on the waves, mark the climax of a nationwide celebration of the "Golden Jubilee of Light," fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent bulb.

Before and after McNamee's cut-in from Atlantic City, a special program by a concert orchestra under the baton of Nathaniel Shilkret will be staged from the studios of WEAF, tracing the history of light through works of famous composers.

A primitive "Hymn to the Sun," recently unearthed among the musical treasures of the South American Incas, will reproduce the earliest awe-struck worship of the god of light, and Beethoven's overture to Prometheus' has been selected to depict the legendary stealing of the magic fire from Heaven. Following Wagner's "Magic Fire Music" and a "Ritual Fire Dance" from ancient pagan temples will precede the age of oil lamps as represented in the Venetian carnival scene of Ponchielli's "Dance of the Hours." The scene will then shift to 1879, the year of Edison's discovery, when Gilbert and Sullivan launched an American debut in the Fifth avenue Theater, New York, of "H. M. S. Pinafore." After the nationwide audience has been taken to Atlantic City and back, Shilkret will close the hour with Weber's 'Jubilee" overture, a grand finale by full orchestra and vocal chorus, to be sung by the Salon Singers.

The dedication ball, held in connection with the opening of the new Convention Hall in Atlantic City, will be broadcast from WRC between 10 and 11 o'clock. The festivities are another feature of the country-wide observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent electric bulb. Music will be furnished by Ben Bernie and his orchestra.

The Cavalcade will return to the air over a coast-to-coast network of stations at 7 o'clock tonight and will be heard locally from WRC. The Cavalcade set the pace for modern swift-moving radio entertainment when it began its aerial march from the studios of WEAF before the National Broadcasting Co. was formed. With the inception of the latter the Cavalcade became the most elaborate radio revue on national networks, and continued its speedy pace up to a year and a half ago.

Entertainment stars of stage and studio will pass in the line of march in the new series, quick-stepping past the microphone to the music of Hugo Mariani and his Mediterraneans. The 60-minute revue will open and close with the Cavalcade March, its original theme tune specially composed by Harold Sanford, former conductor for Victor Herbert.

Featured in the first of the new broadcasts tonight will be Lewis James, second tenor of the Revelers quartet; May Singhi Breen, the "ukulele lady" and her partner, Peter de Rose, the ballad singers, the Melody Musketeers, Betsy Ayers, soprano, and the Mediterraneans dance band, led by Hugo Mariani.

Dance music suggestive of roses and the romantic moonlight of June will be featured during the coast-to-coast broadcast of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra at 9 o'clock from WRC. Among the numbers selected are "At Sundown," "Copenhagen," "Deep Night," "When the World Is At Rest," "Evening Star," Schubert's "Serenade," "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," "Bunch of Roses," "By the Sea," "There's Something About a Rose," and "My Cutie's Due at Two to Two Today."

Dr. Miller McClintock, recognized as one of America's foremost authorities on traffic control, will be the speaker in the nationwide broadcast of the Universal Safety Series from WRC at 6:15 o'clock. "Making Our Highways Safe," will be the subject of Dr. McClintock's talk.

Bloom's "Song of the Bayou" will be given a performance by the Little Symphony, under the baton of Gustave Haenschen, as a feature of the RCA Demonstration Hour to be broadcast from WRC at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. The Selberling Singing Violins, Merle Johnston, saxophonist, Jessica Dragonette, soprano, and her frequent co-star, Colin O'More, tenor, will also contribute to this period.

---

"Public Health Progress in the National Capital" will be discussed by Wallace Hatch from the studios of WMAL at 8 o'clock.

The Castillians Dance Orchestra and the Silver String Revelers will be featured from WOL at 7:20 and 8 o'clock, respectively.

WJSV will broadcast a 4½ hour program made up mostly of musical entertainers beginning at 7:30 o'clock, preceded by Col. Charles I. Stengle, who will discuss "What's Doing on Capitol Hill."

---

An hour of entertainment by Broadway stage stars, interspersed with talks by Arthur Brisbane, Harry Hershfield, and others, is to form part of the broadcast tomorrow night at 10 o'clock to Commander Byrd and his men at Little America, Antarctica, over WGY and 2XAF, stations of the General Electric Co. at Schenectady. The program will be presented in the studios of WEAF in New York City and carried to Schenectady by land wire.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Tiny tots are all decided types, and they can so simply be taught this—while they are still tiny—as well as what colors are most suitable for them!

WE are daily and yearly learning more and more about color. And the astonishing fact that colors can and do have the same effect upon our nervous system as noises has become a certainty.

We are more conscious of the noise, that is all. Or perhaps we should say that our ears are more keenly alive to receiving sensations and impressions and giving them to the nervous system than our eyes.

Too, colorologists and fads of all sorts have given us a distaste for educating ourselves to color, which is indeed unfortunate. For we must be educated to color, since it is one of the things we use so frequently in our daily life. Imagine a world without color! Just look at the illustrations in any magazine, and try to imagine, if you can, a world in shades of grays and grays and blacks and white.

Color and its uses should be taught to children in school. And there is no reason why you shouldn't teach your daughter how to use color, both in connection with herself and her clothing (but based upon her personel coloring) and in connection with her use of it throughout her entire life.

* * * *

Look up some really worth while books on color from the public library—you will find the subject most engrossing and truly useful to yourself as well as to the nerves and general well-being of your family.

* * * *

'Member the type 'n' color game we played with wee mamzelle and her little friends? In case you have forgotten, it was a game that highly amused them the while it taught each one what type she was and what color best suited this type, as well as what colors did not suit her.

Well, we have made a leaflet in which we put all the types of little ones that there are, and their colors, and now you may send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this leaflet and keep it for reference. Wouldn't it interest you?

* * * *

An entire course in lamp-shade making that costs you no more than a stamped self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare Department of The Washington Post! Better send for it, for you jus' prob'bly will wish you had some day if you don't.

WORK ON BRIDGE

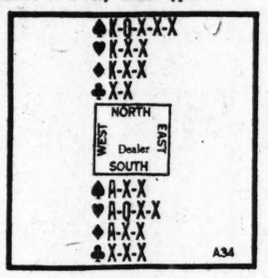
CONTRACT BRIDGE

"The Auction Player unfamiliar with Contract is apt to be troubled by the big difference between Auction and Contract values for tricks, under-tricks, premiums, slams and rubbers, &c. The vulnerability feature of Contract is also apt to be confusing.

"As a special service to our readers, Mr. Work will be glad to send you upon request, complimentary, a complete statement explaining all these new features, provided you inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope for his reply. Mr. Work also answers all Auction and Contract questions without charge."

ONE of the closest problems that presents itself to the Contract player is how to bid when his partner has started with No Trump and he has assistance for the No Trump which includes also a strong five-card major. Let us look at hands of a very usual type:



South (dealer) would bid one No Trump. He has the even division desirable for a No Trump bid, has three suits stopped and a count of 14—1 more than the minimum for a dealer's No Trump.

After West's pass, North would be in a quandary. His hand counts 13 for a No Trump—9 for his three Kings, 2 for his Queen and 2 extra because he has a five-card suit with two of the three top honors. He is justified in jumping his partner's one No Trump to three No Trumps with a count of 12, but the question which naturally would arise in North's mind would be whether the combined hands will be apt to work better at a No Trump or a Spade contract. He knows that should he jump his partner's No Trump there will be no opportunity to show the Spades, and should he bid Two Spades his partner may permit that weak non-game-going declaration to stand. Consequently his best bid is Three Spades.

Three of a major over one No Trump is a virtual command to the No Trumper to bid for game either with four of the major or three No Trump. This command should be heeded even when the No Trump has been bid with a minimum because the partner of the No Trumper is assuming the responsibility for a game contract, but is leaving to the No Trumper the decision of whether the game contract shall be No Trump or the major.

In this case it will be noted that with his defenseless Clubs the No Trumper would elect the major, bidding four Spades; and with a normal break of the adverse cards the contract would be made.

The partner of a player who has bid one No Trump is justified in bidding three of a major when he has a good five-card major and a hand that counts 12 for a No Trump.

MARGARETE MATZENAUER, the famous Metropolitan Opera prima donna, was born this day, 1881, in Temesvar, Hungary. Her father was an orchestra conductor and her mother was an opera singer. She was trained by her parents and also by Antonia Mielke, Georgine Neuendorf and Franz Emerich.

Mme. Matzenauer's most notable roles are in "Salome," "Elektra," "The Ring," "Carmen," "Orpheus," "Fidelio," "Africana," "Aida," and "Mignon." Besides singing in the opera she has made repeated concert tours.

Caroline Lee Hentz, popular American author of her day, was born this day, 1800. She wrote the drama, "De Lara or the Moorish Bride." She lived in Alabama and Georgia.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE HUMBLE STREET.

Always the sound of hurrying feet

The little children laugh and cry
And seem so much like me.

"My father to his work must go,
My mother sews for me,
And all the people whom we know
Are like them as can be.

"And nothing happens worth a word

"Our lives are very commonplace,
We have our common tasks to face
And shall until we're old."

I longed to say that love was there
With all its romance sweet,
That each was an adventurer

All human beings go,
That men who toil and men who reign

To walk with manners grand
We're all alike, but oh I feared
She wouldn't understand.

USING YOUR TIME

In the great rush to get somewhere, men are prone to lose sight of the moral trend of modern life. The common excuse is, lack of time.

You have time enough for everything if you apply it well.

Men would not hesitate to devote days of their time to support a community-wide movement to improve moral conditions, yet few feel they could afford to give a few minutes each day to its advancement.

Those who keep an eye on moral as well as material progress, are the real leaders of a community.

We have the illusion that we are rushed for time and yet we idle away hours that could be turned to good advantage.

Today has twenty-four hours. Tomorrow has no more.

LOSSES OUTWEIGHED BY GAINS AT CLOSING

TIME MONEY EASES UP

New York, May 31 (A.P.).—Stock prices were sent skidding today by another break in wheat in the Chicago pit, but an unexpectedly plentiful supply of call money prompted bullish operations in the utilities and rails and short covering, which caused a rebound from the day's lowest levels. Closing quotations were highly irregular, with gains outweighing the losses.

The break of about 3 cents a bushel in wheat to the lowest levels in years had an immediate effect upon stock prices, with farm implement and mail order shares developing acute weakness. In addition to this nerve-wracking development, unsettling rumors were heard to the effect that one of the most aggressive bull operators had suffered severely in the collapse of several pools in the sharp declines since May 1. These rumors appeared to be borne out by a report that a large block of International Combustion which had been hanging over the market had been taken over privately.

Call money again held officially at 5 per cent, but was available in the outside market at 5½, and time money eased further, with all maturities loaning at 8½ per cent, as contrasted to 9¼ to 9½ for the shorter maturities of late. The ease in money was largely attributed to the piling up of funds in New York banks against the month-end interest and dividend checks which are being mailed out tonight.

Other Important Factors.

Other important factors in the situation were the reduced requirements with the slackening of trading, and the release of funds by the thorough shaking out which the market has undergone in recent sessions.

An indication of the extent to which funds have been freed during the heavy liquidation of late was provided by the Federal reserve brokerage loan figures, published after the close, showing a reduction of $232,000,000 in the week ended Wednesday. This is one of the largest weekly reductions ever recorded, comparing with a drop of only $144,000,000 in the week of the break in late March, and $219,000,000 in the week of the collapse of early December.

Aside from the break in wheat, there was little in the day's news of influence on the market. The British general election caused scarcely a ripple in the New York securities markets. The growing conviction that an agreement will be reached at the reparations conference caused some buying of the copper shares, but they quickly ran into profit taking. The weekly business reviews indicated that high interest rates and the break in wheat prices have caused some hesitancy in wholesale buying, but pointed to sustained activity of the steel and other metal trades.

Pace Comparatively Slack.

The pace of trading was comparatively slack, as many traders extended the Memorial Day holiday to include the week-end. Total sales were less than 3,300,000 shares. The Associated Press index of 50 industrials held steady, and the indices of 20 rails and 20 utilities showed substantial gains, the latter mounting more than 8 points, to within less than a point of its record high level.

American Water Works, concerning which vague merger rumors have been circulated of late, was rushed up 17½ points, to a record price, at 118½, and closed at 115. North American Co. was sent up about 9 points to a new top.

Atchison was again a leader of the rails, mounting 9 points, to 224½, another peak, in response to bullish earnings estimates, indicating that 1929 net will equal more than $20 a share, and prospects of a stock dividend or split-up. New York Central sold up about 8 points.

Scores of issues were carried to new low levels for the year in the morning break. Case Threshing dropped 15 points to 293, in contrast to the year's high of 509; Advance Rumely common dropped 4 points to 27, in contrast to its recent peak of 104⅝. International Harvester and Montgomery Ward reached new 1929 bottoms, and Sears Roebuck broke more than 7 points.

Steel and Radio Recover.

Federal Mining & Smelting broke 13 points. Johns Manville dropped about 5 points to a new low, then rallied for a net gain of 4 points. United Aircraft dropped 7 points, then retraced its steps to close steady. Wright Aero lost about 8 points and closed off 4. Several motor shares dropped 1 to 4 points to new lows for the year, including Chrysler, General Motors, Hudson, Studebaker and Nash, but regained some of their losses before the close. U. S. Steel and Radio both recovered from early heaviness and closed more than a point higher.

Commodities were generally heavy. The drop in wheat carried the May delivery to a low of 93¼ and July to 96 cents, but closing quotations were about 1 cent from the bottom. The drop was in response to the break of nearly 5 cents in Winnipeg yesterday, when American markets were closed. Other grains were heavy and cotton dropped in sympathy.

Foreign exchanges developed rather puzzling heaviness, in view of the favorable reparations progress and the easing money rates at New York. Sterling cables again fell to $4.84⅞, which, theoretically, would make gold imports profitable.

City's Tennis Stars Meet Today

Four Survivors Among Women Also Meet in Tournament.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Women's singles semifinals—3:30 p. m., Miss Krucoff vs. Miss Dunham; Miss Moorhead vs. Miss Frazier.

Men's doubles semifinals—3:30 p. m., O'Neil-Fowler vs. Hobbs-Hills; 5 p. m., Mangan-Considine vs. Judd-Holt.

Women's doubles semifinals—10:30 a. m., Miss Norment-Miss Rowan vs. Miss Martinez-Miss Kingsbury; 5 p. m., Miss Moorhead-Miss Jansen vs. Miss Krucoff-Miss Dunham.

TOPPED by the Tom Mangan-Dooley Mitchell semifinals singles match, the City of Washington championship tennis tournament today offers an attractive program on the Reservoir courts to local lovers of the net sport. Semifinals in men's and women's singles and in doubles for both classes will be played, the first matches commencing at 10:30 a. m., with action almost continuous until sundown.

Mangan, who ranked No. 1 in the District in 1928 and has figured prominently in nearly every tournament he has entered here in the past eight years, will be meeting another strong player in Mitchell, former municipal courts champion, and it is expected that the veteran will be given a grueling struggle. This match will go on at 2 o'clock, at about the same time that Clarence Charest, the oldest player in the tournament, and Deane Judd, former Ohio State star, clash in the other semifinal.

In the women's singles, Phoebe Moorhead will oppose Corinne Frazier, while Frances Krucoff plays Josephine Dunham in the semifinals, both matches starting at 3:30. At 5 o'clock Miss Moorhead will pair with Miss Jansen in the doubles semifinals against Miss Krucoff and Miss Dunham. A men's doubles semifinal will open at the same time, with Mangan and Bob Considine, municipal champion, meeting Judd and W. S. Holt.

Judd-Holt Team Eliminates Mitchell-Buchanan.

Judd and Holt yesterday eliminated Mitchell and William Buchanan in a stirring three-set match by scores of 1—6, 7—5, 6—2. Just previously, the Mitchell-Buchanan duo had defeated the George Washington University team of Seidel and Staubley, 7—5, 4—6, 6—4.

The Army players, Majs. Leland S. Hobbs and J. Huntington Hills, went to the semifinals in doubles by defeating Joe Rutley and Owen Howenstein, 6—4, 6—2.

The tourney officials have made arrangements to handle an unusually large crowd of spectators. No charge will be made for admission.

Mrs. Charles E. Merry, high ranking Canadian player and a favorite in the women's singles division, was forced to withdraw yesterday owing to an attack of neuritis in her right arm. Mrs. Merry, who had easily won her first two matches, had to default to Miss Moorhead, thus placing the latter, also a strong player, in the semifinals.

MACKS DOWN TIGERS, 9-6, IN OPENER

Foxx Hits Home Run, Triple and Single in Slugfest.

PHILADELPHIA, May 31 (A.P.).—The Athletics clubbed the Tigers into submission here today to win the opening game of the East-West series by 9 to 6, the fourth successive Philadelphia victory. Jimmy Foxx hit safely in his fifteenth consecutive engagement and left no doubt about having hit. His total was a homer, a triple and a single, which drove in four runs. His homer was his ninth of the season.

Howard Ehmke made his first start of the season, and left the game after holding his former mates to two ruhs in seven innings. Eddie Rommel permitted the Detroit batters to reach him for five hits and four runs in the ninth and this onslaught gave the Tigers a margin of fifteen to fourteen in hits.

Neither Owen Carroll nor Emil Yde proved particularly difficult for Athletic batsmen. The A's increased their lead over the Browns to five games and over the Yankees to eight.

Browns Lead West Against Nationals

Liska Reports Injury Improved; May Hurl Last of Series.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

DAN HOWLEY and his second-place St. Louis Browns will open the first 1929 invasion of the Capital City by Western teams at Griffith Stadium this afternoon. "General" Alvin Crowder, former National, is expected to pitch for the visitors, while Manager Johnson, because of the condition of his mound staff, will be forced to call on either Bob Burke or Lloyd Brown. The latter probably will get the assignment, in view of his fair performance against the Yankees in the second game of the Decoration Day double-header. These two teams have met but twice this season, with each gaining a victory.

Four games will be played against the Browns, with series of the same length listed with the Detroit Tigers, Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox to follow in the order named. Then will come visits of the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees before the Nationals hit the rails again.

Nats' Rout by Mackmen Telling in Flag Race.

Had the Nationals been able to win a respectable share of their thirteen games played to date with the Philadelphia Athletics, what a difference it would have made in the league standing. The Mackmen, for instance, would not be in front, while the Nats themselves would be close enough to make things interesting.

But the Mackmen took twelve of those thirteen decisions, and this feat was one of the biggest dope upsets of the season to date and knocked the Nats out of the pennant race before they actually were in it.

Because of the heat and the fact that his regulars drew a double-assignment of work Thursday, Manager Johnson gave all of his charges except a few pitchers a day off yesterday. Those who toiled were Adolph Liska, Paul McCullough, Sam Jones and Walter Beall, with Patsy Gharrity on hand to do the receiving.

Both Liska and Jones report improvement and the former likely will be ready to resume action in Tuesday's final of the series with the Browns. He not only took two laps around the park with no bad effects on his sprained ankle but also showed plenty of stuff while warming up. Jones can do a little easy tossing but his progress is mighty slow and there is no telling when he will be available. With the team hitting and fielding as it has been in recent games, Liska and Jones' absence is being keenly felt than ever.

Cronin Also Boasting Long Hitting Streak.

Believe it or not, but George Burns has not made a hit since he was signed by the Yankees last September. His last failure was against the Nationals in the first game of Thursday's double-header when he pinch-hit for Catcher Grabowski opening the ninth inning.

Buddy Myer is not the only National in a consecutive-game hitting streak, although it must be admitted that his, which he ran to 24 in the Decoration Day double-header, is by far the longest of any of his teammates. Shortstop Joe Cronin has now run his record in this respect up to 13 in a row. Since the second game of the double-header here with the Mackmen on May 18, he has gotten at least one safety in every contest. During this period, he has been at bat 50 times and cracked out 23 hits for a nice average of .460.

Sam Rice also has been getting his hits with great regularity, although his streak is a short one of but five games. Just previous to this miss, however, he obtained at least one hit in a dozen games. His record in these 17 contests is 30 hits in 70 times at bat—an average of .394.

British Pro Routs U. S. Ace for 2d Time in One-Sided Match.

By FRANK H. KING
(Associated Press Staff Writer).

MOOR PARK, England, May 31 (A.P.).—Archie Compston, Great Britain's best match play golfer, took a bit of the shine from Walter Hagen's 1929 triumph in the British open championship by drubbing him, 8 up and 7 to play, in a 36-hole match here today. It was the first of two contests between the two star professionals, the second to be run off at Birmingham tomorrow.

The open champion's defeat today was by no such margin as his 18 and 17 reverse at Compston's hands last year, but that match was at 72 holes. If this had gone another 36 holes, probably he might have been just as soundly trounced. He lost six holes in a row from the twenty-fourth through the twenty-ninth.

The only sparkle to Hagen's play for the day came at the thirtieth hole, after the match was over. He garnered a

Hagen, Late at First Tee, Outmaneuvered by Rival

Moor Park, England, May 31 (A.P.).—British public opinion forced Walter Hagen to keep his golf date with Archie Compston, star English pro, but all the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't get "The Haig" out of bed in time to reach Moor Park at 10:30 this morning when the 36-hole match was to begin.

Compston also showed he could be temperamental, for he waited until Hagen arrived before going to the clubhouse to get into his golf togs.

Van Ryn, Hennessey Rout Cubans in Doubles Match

DETROIT, Mich., May 31 (A.P.).—With a relentless rush that that blasted feeble Cuban opposition to shreds, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison today clinched victory for the United States Davis Cup Tennis Team in the American zone finals.

Paired in the doubles event, the third of the final series, with the Cubans, Van Ryn and his blond partner breezed through a straight set triumph over Capt. Ricard Morales and Herman Upmann, 6—2, 6—0, 6—1. The victory gave the United States three straight over its less experienced rivals, as Van Ryn and Johnny Hennessey started the march by wining the opening singles matches in straight set fashion yesterday.

Two more singles events will be played tomorrow, but they will be mere formalities, and Capt. Fritz-Eugene Dixon, nonplaying captain of the United States Team, said he would let Van Ryn and possibly Hennessey rest and prepare for the team's sailing June 5 for Europe, where it will meet the European interzone finalist for the right to challenge France for the prized Davis trophy.

As yesterday, the Cubans were far outclassed today and Van Ryn and Allison won as they pleased even with a rather mediocre game. Only once did Morales and Upmann have the lead in games and that was in the second set, in which they startd out by grabbing the first game, 4 to 2. Eager to get the battle over, Van Ryn and Allison then took the next twelve games in a row to settle the affair. Only five games of the 21 went deuce and Van Ryn and Allison took four of these, indicating they mastered the situation whenever they desired to.

Morales and Upmann were disastrously weak in their returns. Cognizant of this, their rivals fed on their shortcomings with such greed that the Cubans clouted 28 balls, most of them easy ones, into the net and 19 more out of bounds. Backed against a veritable stone wall, Morales and Upmann desperately attempted to score aces and their dismal failure is shown by the fact they commited five double faults each.

Tilden Averts Defeat by Rallying

Wins Last 3 Sets From Baron Morpurgo in Quarter Finals.

Italian Tires Rapidly; Hunter Leading in Borotra Match.

PARIS, May 31 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden won one of the greatest uphill battles of his tennis career today, defeating Baron H. L. de Morpurgo, of Italy, in the quarter finals of the French championships after losing the first two sets. The scores were 9—11, 3—6, 6—1, 6—2, 8—6.

Perfect strategy and judgment of pace carried the veteran American to victory over his younger opponent, one of the ten greatest players in the world, in a match that was brimming with thrills.

Biding his time and conserving his strength Tilden stayed on the defensive for the first two sets, meanwhile making the baron run himself ragged with craftily placed shots. The plan worked so well that the last three sets found Tilden in almost entire command of the situation. Morpurgo, groggy but game, made a brave attempt to capture the deciding set and succeeded in carrying it to deuce but Big Bill was not to be denied.

Hunter Leads 2 Sets to 1 When Borotra Match Is Called.

With Frank Hunter, Tilden's American comrade, leading Jean Borotra, of French Davis Cup fame, by two sets to one in another quarter-final encounter, the match was called on account of darkness. Hunter took the first and third sets, 8—6 and 6—4, while the second went to the Basque, 10—8. The match is to be resumed at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

Tilden, using a chop stroke almost exclusively, started off like a quick winner and was soon leading at 3-love, Morpurgo getting only 1 point in the first three games.

The Italian then managed to make it 3-all and the deadlock continued through game after game. Tilden took the lead, 9-8, by capturing the seventeenth game, only to have the baron come back strong, win his own service twice and break through the American's for the set, 11-9.

With the Italian as well as the American now using a chop stroke, the second set went to two games all, on services. Then the Italian crashed through Tiden's service while winning his own twice to lead, 5-3. Big Bill could not win his own delivery in the next game and lost the set forthwith.

Tilden was making many errors and appeared to have lost his sense of distance, hitting outside and netting often, his genius for anticipation appeared to have gone. He was caught on the wrong foot several times and the Italian clearly dominated the set.

The baron seemed badly spent as the third set began, the strain of the 29 games in the first two sets telling heavily on the Italian, who had done much more running than Tilden. Morpurgo won his service, then Tilden raced through six straight games, none of which went to deuce. The Italian apparently was more desirous of getting the ten minutes rest period than fighting for games in this third set.

Tilden was now running the match to suit himself, absolutely imposing his style of play upon De Morpurgo during the third and fourth sets. The baron had hardly strength to lift his racket. The sting was gone from his service; he was netting continually, and was unable to reach Tilden's tantalizing drop shots close to the net. Big Bill, who had been husbanding his strength, appeared much refreshed by the rest period.

Tilden staged one of those dramatic comebacks that tennis grew to expect in the heyday of his career, and punished De Morpurgo so badly that the Italian could barely stand when the match was over.

The test of stamina in the final set found Tilden with just enough left to win. He outguessed the Italian, ran up a lead, five games to two, then let De Morpurgo even the count in the next three games, two of which went to deuce. After winning and losing the next pair on service, Tilden applied the final pressure and pulled out the set, 8—6, with two straight deuce victories.

Brawny Coast Team Leads Qualifying

Places 14 Men, 4 More Than Penn; East Strong on Track.

Georgetown Qualifies 5; Rothert Breaks Shot Put Mark.

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, Pa., May 31 (A.P.).—Stanford University's brawny band of athletes, coached by "Dink" Templeton, dominated the qualifying trials of the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships today.

By capturing fourteen places in the preliminary, four more than Pennsylvania, Eastern "dark horse," the Cardinals from Palo Alto demonstrated that there was no ballyhoo about the advance notices of their prowess. As a result they are overwhelming favorites to romp off with their third successive team championship in the finals tomorrow and thereby give the Far West its eighth triumph over the Eastern talent in a period of nine years.

Stanford's Showing in Trials Indicates Victory Today.

So sensationally did Stanford's stars perform in the field events, their specialties, that it seemed they are almost assured of sufficient points to clinch the title without lifting an implement tomorrow, since this afternoon's achievements all stand.

Harlow Rothert, Cardinal all-around star, turned in the day's only record performance when he hurled the 16-pound shot 50 feet 3 inches, eclipsing by 2 inches the mark of his teammate, Eric Krenz, who did no better than fourth in today's tests in defense of his title. Krenz, however, set the pace in the discus while another Cardinal, Leo Kibby, topped the field in the javelin with a fine heave of 204 feet 7 inches.

Altogether, Stanford qualified men in eight of the eleven events in which trials were held. The Cardinals placed three each in the discus and high hurdles, two each in the shot put and javelin, one each in the broad jump, 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash and 440-yard run.

Strength Shown by Penn Is Feature of Trials.

Although the trials revealed no team with sufficient strength to menace Stanford's dominating position, Pennsylvania pulled a big surprise by qualifying ten athletes. Lawson Robertson's Quakers clinched second position when a late ruling by officials added Harold Lamberg to the discus qualifiers. One of Lamberg's throws hit a rival marker and was close enough to the qualifying limit to give him a chance in the finals tomorrow.

FIELD OF 14 NAMED FOR SUBURBAN HANDICAP TODAY

Chance Shot, Sortie, Toro Favorites

Display, Petee Wrack Also Find Support in Handicap.

By GEORGE DALEY.

NEW YORK, May 31 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Suburban Handicap rich in turf history and backed by traditions, will be run tomorrow afternoon at Belmont Park over one and one-quarter miles. This legacy from old Sheepshead Bay ever has been eagerly desired by all horsemen, and the field tomorrow is the best and strongest for a number of years.

Fourteen horses are named, including Dolan, the surprise winner of 1928; Chance Shot, Toro, Sortie, Sun Fire, winner of the Toronto Cup a few days ago; Display, the iron horse; Petee Wrack, winner of the Metropolitan Handicap last Saturday, and Bateur, the Man o' War mare and pride of Walter M. Jeffords.

Chance Shot, Sortie, Toro and Petee Wrack Among Favorites.

J. E. Widener's Chance Shot worked a mile and a quarter for the race in 2:05, while A. C. Schwartz's Sortie raced the distance in 2:02 in winning the Maturity Stakes last Wednesday. The former must pack top weight of 126 pounds to Sortie's 116, and they are picked to fight it out, with the McLean Stable's Toro under 125 pounds and Petee Wrack with 124, dangerous factors.

Toro, second in the opinion of many to Reigh Count among the 3-year-olds last season, beat Clyde Van Duzen, the Kentucky Derby winner, in the Granger Memorial last Saturday and was then shipped East to meet the best in training here for this historic fixture. He has worked smoothly since arriving and will have many followers. Tom Shaw and others expressed the opinion that he might go to the post favorite, although Chance Shot is the overnight choice around 2 to 1.

Pascuma Comes East to Ride Toro; Garner on Chance Shot.

Tony Pascuma came East to ride Toro, while Willie Garner will be up on Chance Shot. Sun Fire beat Sortie for the Toronto Cup a few days ago in Canada, but the latter came back with such a sparkling race in the Maturity, that he is selected to split the two choices.

Walter J. Salmon's Display, now in the golden circle of $200,000 winners, is always dangerous, because of his staying qualities, and Petee Wrack will have friends on his sterling race in the Metropolitan.

Naishapur Choice Among 6 in Derby at Fairmount

Collinsville, Ill., May 31 (A.P.).—With only six horses named today as starters, one of the smallest fields in the history of the Fairmount Derby will go to the post tomorrow for the fourth annual running of the Collinsville feature of $25,000 added over the 1¼-mile route.

The field of entries includes Naishapur, who finished second in the Kentucky Derby this year; Karl Eitel, Minotaur, The Padre, Thistle Fyrn and Bather. Naishapur is the favorite. Minotaur, who ran second to Dr. Freeland in the Preakness Stakes, and Karl Eitel, who finished well back in the Kentucky classic, are rated as Naishapur's chief rivals. There was no certainty tonight that the other three would start.

Naishapur, with 126 pounds up, will be conceding weight to all his rivals. Minotaur will carry 121; Karl Eitel, Bather and The Padre, 118, and Thistle Fyrn, 113.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GOLDEN RACKET, $4.12, $3.18; out; RETORT, $4.82, out; SISTER ZOE, out.

GOLDEN RACKET began fast, disposed of CASH PLAY with a rush on the turn and, continuing gamely, held RETORT safe. Latter began moving up strongly after reaching stretch, but swerved to the inside when tiring last eighth. SISTER ZOE, outrun, but saving much ground on inside, closed a good gap last eighth. CASH PLAY began tiring after a half mile. SUITOR was always outrun.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HERETIZ, $4.02, $2.68, $2.36; RATTLE, $4.74, $3.42; TRULY MOVIN' $4.48.

HERETIZ, away slowly, was sent to the front on the first turn and, increasing advantage through stretch, won with much speed in reserve. RATTLE, outpaced to the turn, moved up with a good burst of speed, but could never threaten leader. TRULY MOVIN', used up forcing pace, tired last eighth. VIEUX CARRE was away porly and could never reach a contending position. SUPER TOY had no excuses.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUPERLOVE, $5.90, $3.52, $3.30; LONGWOOD, $7.86, $5.94; FLORHI, $8.22.

SUPERLOVE forced the early pace under steadying restraint, easily disposed of LONGWOOD and MARY McLAIN when ready and, continuing well through stretch, was never seriously threatened. LONGWOOD was sent into contention immediately after start, made a strong bid for command of stretch, but was not good enough. FLORHI, racing improved and under energetic handling, held on well. BLIND HILLS raced sluggishly for six furlongs, then closed with a rush. MARY McCLAIN tired.

FOURTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 2-year-old maidens, fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:27. Off at 3:27. Winner, Dubbs and Runnels' ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZADORA MAY, $8.66, $5.40, $3.70; PERFECT ALIBI, $10.08, $3.26; MABEL BASIL, $3.20.

ZADORA MAY assumed the lead immediately after start, raced wide most of the trip and, tiring near the end, just lasted. PERFECT ALIBI, in nearest pursuit of the winner, saved much ground in stretch and was rapidly gaining on leader last sixteenth. MABEL BASIL came with a belated rush on outside and finished fastest of all. LULLIE BELLE suffered from lack of racing room in early stages.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,700; allowances. The Meadowlane. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:51. Off at 3:52. Winner, W. H. Whitehouse's ch. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ROYAL JULIAN, $12.50, $6.78, out; TYPHOON, $7.04, out; THE CHOCTAW, out.

ROYAL JULIAN, reserved in the first half mile, improved position steadily on outside when straightened out in the stretch and, responding gamely, slowly wore TYPHOON down. Latter, racing suddenly improved and holding on better than usual while saving all possible ground, just failed to last. THE CHOCTAW went well for six furlongs, then began tiring when put to a drive. REIGH OLGA, miserably handled, was repeatedly taken in close quarters, where he could not get through. JEM was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The St. Matthews. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:20. Off at 4:24. Winner, E. B. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SILVERDALE, $4.92, $2.70, $2.50; PLUMBAGO, $2.54, $2.52; BUDDY BASIL, $3.68.

SILVERDALE, racing in best form, followed AGINCOURT to the head of the stretch and, responding well, took command to hold PLUMBAGO safe at end. Latter, sluggish in early stages and forced wide entire trip, finished with a rush last sixteenth and was rapidly overhauling winner. BUDDY BASIL saved ground for entire trip and finished resolutely. PAUL BUNYAN went well. OUI MONSIEUR was void of early foot.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:50. Off at 4:52. Winner, John Dix Doyle's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHUM, $6.82, $4.40, $3.08; BLANC SEING, $4.24, $3.20; HIGH STORM, $3.62.

CHUM, under good rating, began moving up after reaching far turn and, saving ground into stretch, gradually wore BLANC SEING down. Latter, displaying usual early speed, was sent into a long lead entering stretch and, although holding on stubbornly, was not good enough. HIGH STORM, forward from start and, when seemingly done for on the turn, came again through stretch and closed resolutely. DOLLY SETH showed a good effort. RESPOND, used up in early stages, tired badly when the real racing began.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime —By H. W. Webster

Three Major Sport Events On Navy's Program Today

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 31.—June 6, graduating day at the Naval Academy, will be eclipsed perhaps in the matter of attendance at athletic day tomorrow. Three important events are slated for Navy teams and though much of the usual color is lost through the absence of the West Point cadets, two intersectional foes may make the day of equal importance from a general viewpoint. Whether the fighting spirit, which service games always developed, will be lacking, remains to be seen as this is the first June week that the Navy Blue and Army Gray has not commingled.

Three great teams will be here tomorrow in place of Army. The University of Maryland twelve, will be entertained in lacrosse. From the Middle West comes the world record shattering Ohio State track team and the tanned diamond veterans of Notre Dame University. On the Hudson other teams will end long journeys to replace Navy. At each Government institution more than 15,000 fans are expected to witness athletic day.

Track Meet With Ohio State Opens Program at 1:30 o'clock.

Track with the Ohioans will open tomorrow's program. The cinder path and field will get under way simultaneously at 1:30 o'clock. Lacrosse is slated for 2 o'clock and baseball at 3:40 o'clock. It will be possible to see all the track and baseball, or all the lacrosse and part of the baseball or part of all three.

Simpson, dash star and one of the accredited four fastest humans, and Rockaway, world famous hurdler, will feature the visiting track team. State will nearly double the score according to the experts. In baseball, the chance of victory is nearly a toss up.

In lacrosse both teams will have a big backing and the game promises to be a thriller. Maryland comes here with but one defeat, that at the hands of St. John's and the College Parkers have had some special pointing for the Navy battle.

The goal of the Maryland University Lacrosse Team, top ranking in the Intercollegiate Lacrosse League, will either be in its possession or entirely beyond its reach by sundown. For if the Old Liners defeat the unbeaten Navy Twelve they will deserve the highest ranking of the league, but if they fall Navy will be sitting pretty on top, with the season over.

Since Navy has not met as powerful teams as has Maryland, the experts are picking Jack Faber's boys to win. The Old Liners have downed such good combinations as Johns Hopkins, Army and Western Maryland besides others of lesser rank, such as New York U., Randolph-Macon, Hobart, Cornell, Georgia Tech and Virginia.

Boys Nite 'n everything free

That's the magnet tonight at the Jewish Community Center, where the walls probably will bulge with a crowd of youngsters viewing a long and attractive program of sports events and moving pictures. The curtain will go up at 7:30 o'clock.

Joe Judge, Washington's star first baseman, and the crack Jewish Community Center Boxing Team will be there in person and in action. Judge will go to bat vocally, however, and has some interesting tales in store for his listeners. The boxers will stage several bouts, some of the principals being Leroy Bordeau and Joe Miller, the Center's South Atlantic champions in the light heavyweight and lightweight divisions; Joe Lesser, undefeated bantamweight, and Mike Tardugno, one of the city's best featherweights.

One of the features will be moving pictures of championship sports events of the past ten years, showing the titular contests in baseball, football, boxing, rowing, wrestling, tennis, golf and swimming.

A swimming meet between the Jewish Community Center Juniors and the Y. M. C. A. Juniors will be held, and as the closing event the entire audience will be invited to enjoy the cooling waters of the Center pool.

COMPSTON TRIUMPHS OVER HAGEN EASILY

Gallery of 2,500 Gives Hagen Big Hand for His Feat.

The gallery of 2,500 following the match gave the American a big round of applause for the feat. It was the first putt longer than his driver he had holed all day.

From the first tee there was a lack of zest in Hagen's play, but even without any enthusiasm for the contest his natural artistry with his clubs enabled him to stick close to Compston through 21 holes of play.

The visitor had gone to luncheon two down and lost the first hole of the afternoon round to permit Compston to be three up. Three holes were halved and then Hagen won the twenty-third and was only two down. Then came the deluge. Compston won six holes in a row and the match was over.

The champion was obviously tired but Compston played neat golf. His putting was deadly. He missed only one in the morning and none in the afternoon.

The Briton outdrove the American 20, 30 and 40 yards. Compston had a score of 71 to 73 for Hagen in the first round and the home star did the 11 holes played in the afternoon in even fours.

DELANO POST'S representatives in the American Legion series of the Capital City League had to come from behind yesterday in the ninth inning to gain a 9 to 8 verdict over the fast improving Walcott Post team. The latter team put over a run in the final frame to take a momentary lead, but the pupils of George Youngblood succeeded in squeezing over two in their half, a sacrifice accounting for the deciding tally.

The wildness of Bob Winters, Delano starting pitcher, aided the Walcott nine in scoring several runs. He was yanked when the losers threatened to clinch the decision in the early innings and Hawkins and Miller had to be rushed to the mound in turn. C. Mills' home run was the hitting feature. He collected four hits.

The victory places Delano on even footing with George Washington and Lincoln for the runner-up berth, each having won two of three games played.

Capital City Insects In Four Battles Today

Only four teams of the insect section of the Capital City League will see action today. The contest scheduled between the Lionel and Corinthian teams has been postponed on request of the latter team. The league officials announced last night that no further postponements will be permitted.

The Gallagher A. C. Nine will see competition in the league for the first time today, meeting the Clyde Milan A. C., on South Ellipse diamond at 11 o'clock. The Brookland Boys Club-Eastern All-Star contest will be played on the same diamond at 1 o'clock, instead of 3 o'clock as originally booked.

The Georgetown and Sam West nines, both victorious in their first games last week, will clash tomorrow on No. 9 diamond, at 11 o'clock.

STANFORD TRACKMEN LEAD IN QUALIFYING

but this year having only five men entered, secured five qualifying places. Carl Wildermuth, the game little sprinter, qualified for the finals in both the 100 and 220 yard dashes, while Dave Adelman, Larry Milstead and Bob Shotter qualified in the shot put, half-mile run and 440-yard dash, respectively.

In the battle for intersectional honors, Stanford will have considerable aid from Southern California, which qualified nine men in spite of the elimination of Charley Borah, former champion, in the 220-yard dash, and Vic Williams in the quarter mile. New York University, Eastern indoor champions, made a good showing with eight qualifiers, tying with Yale, but Violet hopes for honors tomorrow rest chiefly upon two half-mile aces, Phi Edwards, the champion, and Fred Veit, who outdid his teammate today by running his heat in 1:5. 6-10.

The defeat of Borah, who failed to recover his form after an injury several weeks ago on the coast, left the Pacific Coast hopes for sprint honors up to "Lec" Dyer, Stanford sophomore, who qualified handily in both dashes. Dyer was beaten by John Harwood, of Syracuse, by an eyelash in his heat of the 100, in which Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross, set the pace for the field with a 9 8-10 performance, but the rangy Stanford youth came back in the 220 to win his trial and share the best time of the day 21 8-10, with Karl Wildersmuth, of Georgetown. Borah was fourth in the first heat, won by Kent, of Colgate, in 21 9-10.

Rothert finished the day's record-breaking stunts early when he twice shattered the meet record in the shot put, on his second toss, the Stanford star adding seven-eighth of an inch to the record of 50 feet 1 inch set by Krenz in winning last year. On his next throw, Rothert negotiated 50 feet 3 inches. Krenz, off form at first, needed his last throw of 48 feet 5 inches to qualify. Barney Berlinger, Pennsylvania all-around ace, surprised by gaining second position with a throw of 49 feet 3⅝ inches, more than a foot beyond his best previous performance.

Nats to Give Conlon, C. U. Mound Ace, Trial

John (Jocko) Conlon, 21-year-old Catholic University senior, of New Britain, Conn., and for three years past a pitching mainstay for the Cardinal Baseball Team, will receive a trial from the Washington Ball Club next week. He will report at Griffith Stadium probably Tuesday, following his final academic examinations.

While small of build, weighing only 140 and standing 5 feet 7 inches, Conlon has not been handicapped in pitching by his size. His fast-breaking curve ball has earned him the respect of many an opponent.

During the past season Conlon yielded an average of only 2 runs per game in 9 games or 76 innings. Against Harvard, when he relieved a teammate, he struck out twelve batters in six innings. His strike-out average per game for the season was five and he walked an average of three per game. Adding to his hurling achievements, Conlon led Catholic U. at bat with a season's percentage of .333.

Kramer Denies Sanction Of Central Boxing Team

Asserting as his reason that public sentiment here is against boxing, Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of public schools, yesterday refused to sanction the organization of a group of Central High School boys as a boxing team to compete against teams representing high schools, prep schools or colleges.

Boxing, Mr. Kramer declared, has not yet dissociated itself from prize fighting. Regardless of the personal opinions of the school heads, he would have to refuse them, he told the boys who sought his permission to proceed with plans.

The group was composed of Sanford Ross, football and baseball star; George Mehler, a unanimous choice for the full back position of the 1928 All-High Eleven; Carroll Mitchell, football player; Anse Talbert, 1928 football manager and a member of the Central crew, and Alfred Suraci, distance runner of the track team.

The Return Of OLD KING BRADY

A Bit of Justice.

THE detectives had gained one point only to lose another. They had wrung confession from the murderer and had turned sentiment against him. Bad Man Brown's power was broken forever in Sunflower City.

For some minutes Old King Brady was uncertain how to act. Then he had an idea. "Brown," he said, contemptuously, "I'm not going to kill you, but you can't stay in Sunflower. Take the trail within an hour and get out of this town. The citizens of this place have no further use for such as you!"

"Hurrah for Sierra Sam!"

Hisses followed Brown as he arose and slunk out of the barroom. Roars of applause went up. Jeff Colton leaned over the bar and shook Old King Brady's hand. "Thet did me good!" he cried. "I didn't think thar was a man in the Rockies could stand Brown off, but you did him up handsome! Come on, boys, let's all drink success to Sunflower, now that the bad man is gone!"

Sierra Sam left the crowd drinking to his health at the bar. Once out in the night the old detective sped away down the street.

Old King Brady knew that Harry and Ginger Joe would shadow him. He also knew that Brown, after recognizing him in the barroom, would get out of Sunflower within an hour. He knew that his only hope lay in opening up life again in some distant part of the world. Brown had proceeded with hot haste to his cabin.

As he neared it he ran into Badger Bill. His pal uttered a cry. "What's the matter with ye, Brown?"

"It's all up!" chattered the bad man. "I'm all in. The fiend is on my track. That Sierra Sam cut me all to pieces. He's Brady, the detective."

"Thunder!" ejaculated the Badger. "Ye let him get the best of ye?"

"I couldn't help it—and I'm getting out of town quick!" With this Brown burst into his cabin. Badger Bill followed him and pursued his argument.

The detectives had crept up to the cabin and heard all. King Brady had joined Harry and Joe.

"What do ye mean?"

"I've found ther hidin'-place of the pooty little dove ye hev sworn to hev fer yer own. She and that dancin' brother and old Gospel Jake are hiding in a hole up thar in the hills. We kin go that way and dig ther rabbits out of their hole."

A chuckling laugh of fiendish joy emanated from Brown's lips. "You're a hole team, Badger. Can we do it alone?"

"I've got four of ther boys outside all ready mounted ter help. We kin ride into ther Basin—I know a safe place thar where we can live and be secure for a lifetime. Is it a go?"

"It is!" cried Brown, exultantly. "Perhaps we can get the upper hand in a new country, and again we can rig a trap for the Bradys."

The trio sprung away into the darkness. They heard the six mounted desperadoes ride away into the night.

At the Wolf Den.

Up the ridge they climbed at full speed. Suddenly Ginger Joe gave a hoarse growl and cried, "Listen, will ye!"

From the distance came a strange rattling sound. To all it sounded like the discharge of firearms, coming from the direction of the den.

On they rushed. Panting and breathless they reached the top of the ridge. They leaped nimbly down the slope and came to the pile of boulders which marked the entrance to the cave. Without hesitation Ginger Joe ran to the mouth of the den and crawled into it shouting, "Heigho! Are ye there, Jake?" No answer came.

Old King Brady produced his dark lantern and lit it. All three crept into the den. Everything was in disorder. There was indication that a struggle had taken place. Going a little further into a side passage, a gruesome discovery was made. Three human bodies lay there. One of these was recognized as one of the Sunflower gang; across him lay another of the desperadoes against the wall was Gospel Jake. No trace of Inez or Pedro could be found.

The explorers decided that the two young Mexicans had been carried away. They examined the ground outside and found the imprint of horses' hoofs there.

"They have been here and carried off the boy and girl," said Old King Brady sadly. "There is no other course than for us to give pursuit."

Just then a strange sound came from far down the gorge. It was like a wild yell for help. Then a pistol shot was heard. For a moment they stood in wondering expectation. With one accord they started in the direction of the sound. On they ran, and as they drew nearer to the scene the uproar became greater. Loud and angry voices were heard.

Suddenly they came on a strange scene. Two dead horses lay upon the bed of the defile. Two men stood facing each other in the starlight. Back of them was a cavalcade of horsemen. It appeared as if the two men on foot had shot their horses from under each other.

"We ain't goin' to let you go till ye give an account of yourself," said one of the men in a loud, stern voice. "Who are ye, and why did that gal scream for help?"

"She's my darter and she was abused by ye," replied the other, whom the detectives recognized as the Badger.

"What's yer name?"

"Bill Simmons from Beaver Mill. I'm a square man! Who be you?"

"I am Dan Hayden, of Silver Slough; we are vigilants lookin' fer Slippery Ike Ellis, the hoss thief. Hev ye seen him?"

"No, I don't know him."

In an instant the situation was taken in by the trio. Ginger Joe roared out: "Hello, Dan! You know Ginger Joe, I reckon. Hold that fellow; he's a bad one. He's Badger Bill Smith."

Here the Bradys and Ginger Joe came into the open. Hayde gave a loud shout. "It's Ginger Joe, I swan. Hold on thar! Stop him, boys." The Badger had made a break, but half a dozen of the vigilants headed him off. He was seized, disarmed and brought back.

Justice at Last.

Ginger Joe then told the story of the doings at Sunflower and the dark work of Bad Man Brown in abducting little Pedro and Inez. When he had finished Hayden said:

"I'll do that. Oh, I say, what'll we do with this chap?"

"Ye might let me go," whined the Badger. "If ye will I'll help ye catch Brown."

"Hold on thar! You once lived in Silver Slough, Badger. I remember ye well now. Boys, bring up a halter and we'll settle the account right here." In a jiffy a noose was made and in a few moments Badger Bill had paid the penalty of his misdeeds.

"Now fer Bad Man Brown," cried Hayden. "He made off down ther White Cliff Trail. Mebbe we can head him off."

Dan Hayden had made a record in that wild part of the West. He had hunted down scores of desperadoes and Silver Slough had been freed of just such an element as that which had cursed Sunflower City for so long. Keen Carter would have accomplished the same thing if he had lived.

They rode through the night at breakneck pace. Mile after mile they went at full speed. Down through the canyons and over the flinty trail. Then forded a river and followed it down its course, which led them to the town. Only a few cabins were lighted. The tavern was never closed. Up to its entrance rode the vigilants. The place was instantly surrounded. Their arrival created some little excitement. A dozen or more tipsy gamblers flocked out to find what all the noise was about. Then Hayden rode up to the door and called loudly:

"Jim Crockett! Come out! You're wanted outside."

In response the "ruler" came out into the glare of the tavern lamp. He was a heavy-faced man. He leered at Hayden and asked, "What do yer want?"

"We want Barton Brown. He is in your hotel."

"No, he ain't. He left here half an hour ago."

"You lie an' you know it, Sandy. Bring him out or we'll pull your tavern down about your ears."

"Then ye won't give him up?"

"Stop and consider, Sandy. Brown is nuthin' ter you. It'll be a bad thing to resist us."

"I don't keer a continental. He's a guest in my hotel an' I'm bound ter protect him. Now don't yer hang around my place another minute."

Hayden turned and gave a sharp order to his men. Instantly they sprang forward to enter the tavern. But they were met with a volley of pistol shots from the barroom. The doors flew shut. It was plain there was a gang in readiness. Hayden, shouting orders to advance, headed the attack. In a few moments the vigilants swarmed into the barroom. They took possession of the place at once. Old King Brady and Harry, with Ginger Joe close behind, sprang up the rickety stairs to the floor above. As they did so they heard a feminine scream for help.

Old King Brady hurled his weight against a door and it went crashing in. A thrilling scene was being enacted in the room. Brown and one of his men were struggling to catch Pedro and Inez, who were dodging them about the room.

In the bad man's hand was a murderous knife. That he intended to murder his two captives was plain.

Brown had turned and seeing the detectives, pulled his revolver. But Harry acted with rapidity. He saw Brown's purpose and instantly fired. The bullet struck the villain's weapon and sent it flying from his hand. Then Old King Brady was upon Brown like a panther.

Ginger Joe already had the other ruffian subjected. Harry went to Old King Brady's assistance and the bad man was disarmed and borne to the floor. The handcuffs were upon him instantly.

Bad Man Brown was at last safe in the clutches of the law. He showed his cowardly spirit by abjectedly whining and begging piteously for life—all to no effect. In due time he was extradited and, though many crimes were charged against him in Nevada, the rights of the New York courts were recognized as findi and he was tried, found guilty and suffered the penalty for murder. Thus, the Luther Benjamin mystery was completely cleared up and the Bradys came in for great credit and the reward.

Sunflower City underwent a wave of reform and a better system of government was organized. But to this day the story of the Bradys and Bad Man Brown is told to the stranger with much gusto and vivid realism.

Ginger Joe accompanied them to New York and remained during the trial. But he later returned to his old haunts in the Rockies.

GERMAN BONDS LEAD IN SLIGHT RECOVERY

CARRIER LIST IRREGULAR

New York, May 31 (A.P.).—Under the leadership of the German obligations, bond prices made a slight recovery today. With the exception of a few issues in the foreign list, notably the German Central Agricultural Bank bonds, the gain was not of such proportions to be termed a rally, but the general tone of the market as a whole was better, although trading was still sluggish.

The reparations agreement reached in Paris on Wednesday turned attention to the foreign list where some of the best buying of the day appeared. German Agricultural Bank securities moved up from ½ to 2¼ points, while German General Electric 6s advanced 3¾. The Rhinelbe 7s, with and without warrants, were strong, and the German Republic 7s improved fractionally.

French and Belgian obligations were in demand in fair volume, the latter showing gains of ¼ to 1, while the French Republic 7½s gained 1⅜ and the 7s a small fraction.

The British election caused some notice to be taken of the United Kingdom 5½s, which dipped to a new year's low of 102¾, a net loss of half a point.

Rails moved irregularly, although some of the higher priced issues made up losses suffered earlier in the week. Central of Georgia 4½s, Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific 4½s, Atchison general 4s and Texas & Pacific 5s were strong points.

Industrials and utilities were spotty and made no outstanding fluctuations on small inquiry. International Telephone debenture 4½s, up 1⅝; Utah Power & Light 5s and Utilities Power & Light 5s, up 2 each, reflected better investment buying.

The convertibles were again led by the Atchison 4½s, which closed 3½ points higher on the strength of the stock. Improvement was also shown by the two popular telephones, International and American, the former gaining 2 and the latter a fraction, both on heavy buying. Missouri Pacific 5½s got into new high ground at 106, up 1¼ for the day.

United States Government issues made only slight price changes in an easy market, but no new lows were recorded for the first time in several days. Fluctuations were less than half a point in all the liberties and treasury notes.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, May 31.—Opening advances influenced by reports of overholiday rains and overflows in Texas were followed by declines in the cotton market here today under liquidation and local or commission house selling prompted by weakness in the grain market and the failure of cotton to advance further on the weather and crop news. October contracts broke from 18.62 to 18.30, making new low ground for the movement and closed at 18.31 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 17 points.

Opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points and active months showed net advances of 10 to 15 points during early trading on covering combined with some local buying inspired by relatively steady showing of Liverpool and rain news from the Southwest. July contracts sold up to 18.48 while December advanced to 18.74 but these figures evidently attracted considerable realizing. At any rate, the demand inspired by bullish weather and crop advices was readily supplied and the market turned easier before the end of the morning.

One private report pointing to an increase of 4.1 per cent in acreage and placing the condition of the crop at 70.6 compared with 68.6 at this time last year seemed to make rather a bearing impression on sentiment and may have been partly responsible for the reaction. Selling became somewhat more active as prices eased off and was supposed to include considerable liquidation for Wall street and Western account. This may have been influenced to some extent by weakness of the grain market, but failure of the bullish weather and crop news from the southwest to have a more important effect on the early market was considered one of the chief factors of the decline.

Prices made new low ground for the movement on all positions with July selling off to 18.15 and December to 18.50, and closing quotations were at the lowest levels of the day.

In addition to the report mentioned above, two others were issued during the day, one of them pointing to an increase of only 1 per cent in acreage and the other to an increase of 1.5 per cent. One report placed the condition at 70 against 68 last year while the other placed it 69.5 against 68.9 last year.

Exports today were 16,314, making 7,683,388 so far this season.

SCHENCK SENTENCED TO PRISON 20 YEARS

Former District Policeman Admits Two Highway Robberies.

ESCAPES MURDER TRIAL

A twenty-year prison sentence was dealt out to Frederick A. Schenck, 27 years old, former District policeman, for committing two highway robberies, by Justice Frederick L. Siddons, yesterday in criminal branch of the District Supreme Court. Schenck pleaded guilty to both crimes.

The robberies were staged last February and netted Schenck only $46.28. Brandishing a revolver, the former policeman held up Kenny C. Van Meter in a gasoline filling station at Fourteenth and D streets northwest, across the street from police headquarters, on Feburary 18 and escaped with $26.28.

Two nights later, Schenck entered the fashionable Meridian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest, and leveled a revolver at Russell Benett, the night clerk. It was said that Benett told the robber his employers might not believe he was robbed and to protect the clerk, Schenck awakened a sleeping bell-hop and forced him to witness the crime. Schenck got $20 from the clerk.

Schenck was arrested in March and while being held for New Jersey authorities for the shooting of a policeman during a highway robbery he committed in Newark, is said to have confessed to the local crimes to escape going back to New Jersey. He was also wanted in connection with robberies of gasoline stations in nearby Virginia.

Schenck played a prominent part as an outstanding witness for the prosecution in the Police Board trial that resulted in dismissal of Orville Staples from the Police Department. Shortly after the Staples trial, Schenck was trapped in a raid on a woman's apartment and was dismissed from the force on charges of misconduct.

AGREEMENT TO JOIN CAPITAL TRAM LINES WILL EXPIRE TODAY

Merger Proposition, Adopted Year Ago by Companies, Definitely Dead.

PLAN FAILED BECAUSE CONGRESS OPPOSED IT

Drive May Be Resumed Next Winter, When Regular Session Convenes.

The battered agreement under which the Capital Traction Co. and the Washington Electric Railway Co. were to consolidate expires today, one year and nearly four months after being signed. Meanwhile, the drive for a traction merger here has been postponed to next winter when Congress convenes in regular session.

As a matter of fact, the agreement which expires today has been dead since the last session of the Seventieth Congress. It was only good while there was a possibility that Congress would approve the joint resolution which embodied its terms for a merger.

These terms included a $50,000,000 valuation for the traction companies and continuance of the present rate of fare for only one year.

Resolution Had No Hope.

A joint resolution containing such terms as these could not get to a legislative first base, and the traction officials knew it. Consequently, they did not put up much of a protest when the Senate committee drafted a new resolution.

This new resolution left out any mention of valuation and specified that the present rate of fare, instead of being continued for only one year, should be continued for two, when a new valuation would be completed.

Had this resolution been adopted—and it might have been had there been time—the traction companies necessarily would have had to enter into a new merger agreement, because, as has been said, the first resolution was simply a legislative digest of the orignal agreement.

Blaine Chief Opponent.

Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, was the chief opponent of the substitute resolution at the last session, and it was his threat to start a filibuster that prevented any attempt to call it up. So far, Blaine has given no indication that he has changed his opinion of the merger resolution, and no doubt he will be ready to fight it again next winter.

Providing there is time during the regular session, however, the prospect is that the resolution will be adopted by the Senate and also by the House.

In the meantime there is much specuation as to what the Capital Traction Co. will do about asking for a higher fare. At a meeting last March the board of directors of the company authorized the executive board to file application for an increased fare. In view of the possibility that Congress might approve the merger, the board held off. What it will do now remains to be seen.

HOOVER AID DESIRED TO LAUNCH CAPITAL MUNICIPAL CENTER

President May Be Requested to Urge Appropriation at Extra Session.

EMERGENCY MEASURE, IS CLAIM OF SIMMONS

Budget Bureau's Disapproval of $3,000,000 Item for Project Anticipated.

With the Bureau of the Budget apparently determined to disapprove the estimate, only President Hoover can bring about action at the special session on a $3,000,000 appropriation toward Washington's proposed municipal center. And it is expected that the President, in the interest of economy, will be asked to urge action at the special session.

The District Commissioners, early this week, sent to the Budget Bureau a request for approval of an appropriation of $3,000,000 for the municipal center and $500,000 for incinerators. Although the bureau has not yet acted, it is understood that it will turn down the request.

The bureau will contend, it is expected, that the proposed legislation is not of an emergency nature and that the President wants the special session to deal mainly with tariff, farm relief and reapportionment.

Simmons Claims Emergency.

Representative Simmons (Republican), of Nebraska, who has been the father of municipal center legislation in the House, declares that the proposed $3,000,000 appropriation is of an emergency nature. If this money is made available now, he points out, the four squares needed for the center can be bought for much less than will be asked for them during the regular session.

The $3,000,000 is needed to purchase property between Judiciary square and Pennsylvania avenue. It is bounded by Third and Sixth streets, Pennsylvania avenue, Indiana avenue and Louisiana avenue. In this area will be built a handsome array of buildings to centralize the various departments of the District government.

Mellon May Assist Project.

If Secretary of the Treasury Mellon approves a plan submitted to him by Representative Simmons, the money to pay for the actual construction of the first of the buildings may be made available through purchase of the present District building by the Federal Government.

The District building is located in a triangle that some day is to contain nothing but Federal office buildings, and eventually Uncle Sam will have to buy it from the local government. Simmons' idea is to have the Federal Government buy it now, so as to provide money for the municipal center, and then take over the property whenever it needs it.

TWO GET 19 YEARS FOR GIRL ASSAULT

Capital Men Plead Guilty to Charge of Washington Young Woman.

FAIRFAX JUDGE THANKED

Altering pleas of not guilty made May 24, William Coulter, 623 Jefferson avenue northwest and Guy Elmendorf, 1108 K street northwest, pleaded guilty to a charge of criminal assault on a 16-year-old Washington girl before Judge Howard W. Smith in Fairfax County Circuit Court of Virginia yesterday and each was sentenced to 19 years in the Virginia State Penitentiary at Richmond. The maximum sentence on this charge is 20 years.

The assault on the girl is said to have occurred between midnight and early morning May 23 and the two men were arrested at their homes in Washington early that day. They were taken first to the Arlington courthouse, but Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth after a survey at the scene of the crime, found that the attack occurred 150 feet over the line into Fairfax County and the men were taken there.

A special grand jury indicted the pair on the charge at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of May 23 and on May 24 they entered pleas of not guilty. Date of the trial was set for June 14, but yesterday when the men indicated a desire to change their pleas, Judge Smith set aside the continuance and then sentenced them to the penitentiary.

After hearing Judge Smith pronounce the sentence upon them, both men thanked the court. They will be taken to Richmond in a few days to begin serving their terms.

Bishop Freeman Presides at Ceremony Held in Cathedral Close.

The Bishop's Garden in Washington Cathedral Close was dedicated yesterday by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, at the annual meeting of Allhallows Guild, the garden guild of the National Cathedral. Because of the threatening weather the first part of the meeting was held in Satterlee Hall with Bishop Freeman presiding.

Bishop Freeman spoke of the historic value of the boxwood and other rare trees and plants which have been placed in the Bishop's Garden and elsewhere in the Cathedral Close through the efforts of Allhallows Guild. He expressed the hope that some day a magnificent statue in bronze or marble of the late Right Rev. Henry Yates Satterlee, first Bishop of Washington, would be placed somewhere in the Cathedral Close. After the meeting in Satterlee Hall the assemblage adjourned to the Bishop's Garden where the dedicatory prayers were said.

ALTITUDE MARK SET AS HEAT REGISTERS 99 ON STREET KIOSK

PARTIAL RELIEF SEEN TODAY AFTER STORM

Record Temperature of May Passes Without Any Prostrations.

Mercury clipped a figurative leaf from aviation's scroll of record-breaking May achievements to hang up a high altitude mark of its own in Washington yesterday, when the sizzling fluid skyrocketed to a new unofficial high mark of 99 degrees for the year.

This lofty peak was scrawled on the recording machine at the downtown kiosk at E street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest in contrast to an official 92.2 degrees registered at the United States Weather Bureau.

A scorching sun, which this week claimed several deaths and prostrations here, bore down with its greatest intensity of 1929 at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon without claiming a single victim, however.

The typical midsummer weather scored its first early season triumph in disrupting business, as more than 2,000 employes of the Bureau of Customs and Prohibition were released from work about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when the heat became unbearable in the Temporary Building C at the corner of Seventh and B streets southwest. This was said to have been the first time May weather ever led to action of this nature in that governmental branch.

Cloudy skies and expected thundershowers last night, marking the inward movement over this region of a high pressure area from Iowa and Illinois, were forecast by the United States Weather Bureau to give way to somewhat cooler temperatures today.

Aid Asked to Protect Capital Street Signs

Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, of the District highway department, yesterday appealed to motorists and residents of the District in general to aid in maintaining highway signs placed to warn traffic of street closings.

Under the system now being followed signs are placed a block away from any closed intersection warning traffic that "this street is closed to through traffic." The signs would work all right, Whitehurst said, if they were left where they were placed, but investigation has disclosed instances in which they have been destroyed or moved.

Five Generations to Gather At Family Reunion Here

Rosemary Penkert is only 10 days old and is so tiny you have to look close to find her among her swaddling clothes and blankets in her cradle, but tomorrow she is going to play the biggest part in the old-fashioned family reunion to be held at her home in Seat Pleasant, Md., when five generations of her family gather.

Rosemary, who was born May 26, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Penkert, who live on Chapel road. Her father is a policeman attached to the Third Precinct.

Besides her mother and father, those who will attend the reunion include her grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Braun, of Seat Pleasant; her great-grandmother and great-grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Thomas, of 524 Seventh street northeast, and her maternal great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Margaret Bender, 81 years old, of 1119 Four-and-a-half street northwest. # Catastrophe Scare Caused By Excavation Dynamiting

A stiff charge of dynamite set off in excavation work at the new Julius Garfinkel & Co. building operation at Fourteenth and F streets northwest reverberated through downtown Washington shortly before 11 o'clock last night to create alarm in the city that it had been visited by a disaster similar to that in Cleveland recently.

Newspaper offices and police were besieged for a time with persistent requests for explanations.

Burrowing deeper to tear away remains of the former structure, workmen released a series of dynamite charges throughout the early part of the night that failed to attract attention until the unusually powerful blast at the southeast corner of the excavation, which had been made necessary by a former cement foundation.
